ODE TO ADVERTISERS

by Charles Strosnider

One of the most rewarding experiences of the passage of time is the continance of friends.

The acceptance of one anothers foibles and the understanding of the mutual interdependence offers a certain feeling of stability in this uncertain world.

Over the past 55 the Pine Cone years has enjoyed the close relationship and support of the business and cultural community of Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula. A few pre-date the Pine Cone's innaugural issue of February 3, 1915, and have been continuous advertisers since.

Holman's Department Store opened its doors in 1891. The Pine Inn (1902) and the La Playa (1906) hotels began entertaining princes, artists and peripatetic travelers in their present locations.

The Carmel Drug Store started serving the public in the same spot in 1905. The Cinderella Shop brought fashions to Carmel women in 1906.

Carmel Realty has made it possible for newcomers to become taxpayers since 1913.

All of these, and more, lent their support to the Pine Cone from its very inception.

The Pine Cone is able to serve its readers and at the same time its advertisers, because of the support of those who advertise.

The Pine Cone readers embrace the world. Beyond the Monterey Peninsula, The Pine Cone has subscribers in 159 cities in California, in 42 states of America and 22 foreign countries, including every continent of the world.

The advertisers exist to serve you, the readers, with their merchandise and services, and the Pine Cone is their medium of making you aware of their presence.

The four pages of early issues of the Pine Cone printed for reader interest in this issue and for several weeks hereafter, are supported, as a public service, by the advertisers mentioned above and by Harriet Duncan (1948), "Barney" Laiolo with his Village Electric, Roller Chevrolet (1938), and John Roscelli Co. ("Papa John") (1926).

The Pine Cone salutes these and the many other advertisers over the years who have helped make its continued publication possible.

Panel on aging at MPC

The problems and requirements of the aging will be discussed at a program to be held at Monterey Peninsula College Friday, Feb. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in Lecture-Forum 103.

In inviting the public to attend the meeting without charge, Dr. Keith Merrill, MPC dean of the evening and community service programs, says: "There are few knowledgeable people on the Monterey Peninsula who are not becoming increasingly concerned about the many problems which beset the aged – and those providing service to the aged – in our community.

"Many individuals, community groups and institutions provide many serivces, but there are gaps in such services and sometimes lack of knowledge of what others are doing.

"With these factors in mind, an informal committee of professional and lay persons has met to explore ways in which both interested citizens and thoe providing professional services for the aged might come together to discuss problems, and communicated together about means of solving them at the local, state and national level. Representatives of this ad hoc committee have put together Friday's program for this purpose."

Members of a panel, each representing a specialized field, will be: Dr. John Schroeder, Monterey physician – "Medical Requirements;" Sebastian Bordonaro, Carmel architect and planner – "Housing Requirements;" Mrs. Ferne Mueh, an audiologist for the Monterey Institute of Speech and Hearing and a resident of Canterbury Wood – "Social Requirements;" Rev. David Hill, Carmel Epsicopal minister – "Spritual Requirements;" Mrs. Beatrice Tavernetti, community representative, New Monterey Neighborhood Center – "Leisure Requirements"; and Oscar Donaldson Jr., Social Security district manager for Monterey County – "Financial Requirements."

Now we're 55-- and still growing

by Ann McKenna

This issue of the Pine Cone marks the beginning of the 56th year of publication.

We are reproducing through the courtesy of 10 of our advertisers, the four pages of the original issue, Vol. I, No. 1, dated February 3, 1915, the year before the city of Carmel was incorporated.

The first issue of the Pine Cone was printed through the efforts of its founder, William O. Overstreet, who spent five years in its preparation.

All the type on the first issue was set by hand. The little four-page paper had to be "kicked" off the press four times. Mr. Overstreet's good wife did the folding.

The paper was launched, started, and on its uncertain way. Three hundred copies of the Carmel Pine Cone were printed in the first run, and all were sold or subscribed for.

Birney W. Adams was the first paid-in-advance subscriber, James Franklin Devendorf the second.

In addition to being the paper's editor, "Bill" included in his many civic activities serving as postmaster, on the school and sanitary boards and as a member of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department.

He set up his second-hand press in the room behind the post office, which was located in what is now Womble's Pharmacy. His wife, Kitty, wrote the Pine Needles and sold much of the advertising.

In his first editorial, editor and publisher, William O. Overstreet wrote (Vol. I, No. 1, Feb. 3, 1915):

We have come to stay – Yes, we know you have read the foregoing statement before, but let us conclude the sentence – as long as the general public and the business interest of Carmel prosper us or suffer us to remain.

To permit this journal to struggle and languish – and mayhap die – would be far great black eye and loss to the community than to the publisher.

The foundation for the establishment of this weekly publication is a profound confidence in the future – and that not distant – prosperity of our beloved Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Every resident, be he businessman, artist, writer, mechanic, or laborer, should be as much interested in the ultimate success of this, your "home" paper, as the publisher.

As one resident puts it, "the advent of a newspaper into a community is the beginning of a new era."

MPMA in formal opening

The formal opening of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art was held on Saturday, Jan. 31 at the Museum's new location 559 Pacific Street in Monterey.

First named the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the American Federation of Art, the Museum Association had its beginning in 1959 when it was formed by the late Rama Sterns and Mrs. Nellie Montague of Carmel.

Under the leadership of the late Leonard Heller, with Miss Sophie Harpe as the first president and Mrs. Jess Braucht as the first curator, the Museum, then located on Lincoln Street in Carmel, took an active part in the cultural life of the community.

Robert Nelson of the Monterey Peninsula College Art Faculty also served as president during the group's formative days.

The Museum moved to its new quarters during the autumn of 1969 when the former County Building in Monterey became available. The lcoation was suggested by Richard Garrod, city planning director and member of the Museum Board of Trustees. Working with a committee under the direction of Mrs. William Arnold, president of the organization, the association arranged to lease its new location from the City of Monterey.

The Museum will have two exhibitions as part of its initial activities. Featured in the Main Gallery will be the Sixth Annual Monterey County Painting Competition, a juried show limited to residents of the county.

Three equal prizes of $300 each are awarded annually, plus a one-man show to one of the three winners. This year one of these prizes has been designated as the First Annual Purchase Award, and has been specifically chosen to commemorate Monterey's BiCentennial year.

The Balcony Gallery will display the Seventh Annual Invitation Photography Show, under the direction of Steve Crouch, Board member and chairman of the photography committee.

The opening exhibits will be on display through Feburary 26. Museum hours are 10 to 5 Tuesday through Friday, 2 to 5 Saturday and Sunday, and closed Mondays and holidays.

Carmel—How It Was Named.

When Sebastian Visciano, the Spanish navigator, in December, 1602, was skirting the California coast looking for a harbor in which to locate a colony as a haven to which the Philippine galleons could run for shelter from pirates, he landed in Monterey Bay. With him were three friars of the Carmelite order. Visciano immediately began to make rough surveys of the territory in order to furnish a map of the harbor with his report to the King of Spain. The Carmelite friars took advantage of the delay to ascend the hills back of the landing place in order to examine the country [illegible] When they [illegible] the hill they [illegible] similarity of [illegible] topography of the [illegible] to that surrounding the sacred Carmel Monastery [illegible] whence they came. Mount Carmel in the Holy Land had been duplicated in this far western country. Because of this resemblance, they prevailed on Visciano to name the river traversing the plain, Carmelo River, and the mountain in the background, Mount Carmel.

It will be noted that Carmel River and Mount Carmel are the geographical points bearing their present names for the longest time of any in the United States. Jamestown, Virginia, was founded five years later.

The resemblance between the topography of the land lying between Nazareth and the Arabian Sea and that lying between Salinas and Carmel Bay has been oftentimes remarked by tourists

SCHOOLS.

In all progressive communities the first thought of those interested is the establishment of schools. These Carmel has.

Sunset school is a graded public school and is under the direction of the Monterey county superintendent and a local board. Pupils graduating from this school may attend the high schools at Monterey and at Pacific Grove.

An excellent private school for young children is conducted by Miss E. L. Williams and is located on the beautiful eighty-acre tract.

Location of the Village

Carmel-by-the-Sea is in the angled formed by two ranges of hills, one running in a general easterly and westerly direction, forming the backbone of the Monterey Peninsula, and the other at right angles to it, forming the natural barrier between the Carmel bay and the Carmel River territories. In this angle has grown a forest of pines and oaks—not small striplings, but substantial forest trees.

The long strip of thirty miles of rich alluvial soil in the valley acts as an equalizing factor by furnishing currents of warmer or cooler air whenever the land and ocean temperatures differ. Because of this the temperature at Carmel is never twenty degrees lower or higher than the temperature of the ocean.

Immediately back of the village, along Carmel River, is a wonderful valley about thirty miles long. The width varies from one-half to two miles. Ranges of granite and chalk rock hills, from 500 to 1500 feet high, bound it on the north and south.

On the west is the Pacific ocean, whose water is never below 55 degs., nor above 65 degs.

WEEK-END TRIPS.

It is possible to enjoy a week-end or holiday excursion to Carmel for from $5.75 to $6.75 covering all expenses.

One can leave San Francisco on the coast train on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and return Sunday night at 11:45 by procuring a round-trip ticket to Monterey for $3.00. The round-trip stage fare is 50 cents. Good hotel accommodations may be had for $2.50. Incidentals will be covered by 25 cents, making the total for an opportunity to get a complete change of air in one of nature's garden spots for $6.25.

Many Pleasures for a Vacation

The beautiful beach of pure white silicon sand, with the fifty-two acres of sand dunes, is a playground for the children, and resting place for the nerve weary. The four-hundred acre pine forest, with its deep carpet of pine needles, furnishes all the balsamic odors of the Sierras.

Fishing abounds, in the river for trout and steelhead, and in the bay for all kinds of sea-food fish.

Driving and riding, either around the 17-mile drive, or down the coast, or up the valley, are interesting diversions.

The bathhouse on the beach furnishes all the applances for surf bathing.

Picnic parties find the greatets variety of picturesque nooks on the open sea, along babbling brooks, in granite gorges, midst redwood or pine forests, or in sheltered dales.

The local stables furnish all kinds of teams and saddle-horses and ponies.

Tennis courts are free to the public. Sporting goods may be had in town.

Several clubs give art exhibitions, dramatic and musical entertainments and dances several times monthly.

Carmel has a well established moving picture theatre, and the usual entertainments given at the Monterey theatres are as available to Carmel as are the San Francisco play-houses to to the residents of Alameda county.

More than sixty per cent of the residents of the village are devoting their time to work related to the aesthetic arts. College teachers, artist, poets, magazine writers, and professional men and women find the environment especially conducive to their best work.

The Arts and Crafts club, the Library, the Manzanita club, the Choral society, and several reading circles are organizations for the promotion of social intercourse and intellectual advancement.

Forest Theatre is World Famous

Annually the members of the literary colony of Carmel cooperate in producing plays on the open-air stage at the Forest Theatre. This theatre is in a peculier theatre-shaped glen in the open forest, and is wonderful in its acoustic and other properties.

The stage is so arrangnd as to have a natural growth of trees for a sounding-board.

The proscenium is arranged on the natural soil, shaped somewhat similar to the Greek theatre at Berkeley. This is backed by pine trees, so that the slightest sound upon the stage may be heard throughout the audience.

Owing to the characteristic stage setting, the nature of the plays is unique and the interest of the entire village in the undertaking is so great that its success as an incentive for further literary production of a dramatic character is assured.

Among the plays successfully produced may be noted "David," "Twelfth Night," "The Toad." "Runnymede," "The Arrow-maker" and "Montezuma," besides several children's plays.

GOLF COURSE.

The Carmel golf course is situated south of the village and follows the ocean front from the end of the beach to the mouth of the Carmel river.

It is a ten-hole course which for scenic beauty and interesting natural hazard cannot be surpassed. Philip Wilson, the manager, laid out the course, and his claim is that this course, excepting the old turf, contains better golfing possibilities than any in Scotland.

A club-house is a feature maintained by the management.

The Carnegie Institute of Washington, D. C., maintains at Carmel an excellent laboratory. During the summer a large corps of scientists are busy here. Dr. D. T. MacDougal is the director.

Opposition to 'disclosure of assets' law by Carmel City groups intensifies

by GUNNAR NORBERG

What price in privacy for public office?

That seemed to be the question which Carmel city fathers were asking themselves last week.

Last Friday the Carmel City Council held a special meeting to consider what position it would take toward the act now that it is law.

Earlier the City Planning Commission had expressed its opposition to the law in a letter directed to Governor Reagan, State Senator Donald Grunsky, and State Assemblyman Bob Wood.

In the course of its deliberations, the City Council decided to try to put legal teeth into its opposition to the disclosures of assets law.

It directed City Attorney William Burleigh to research and investigate the desirability of legally challenging the constitutionality of the law.r

And it appropriated the sum of $5,000 from the City's contingency fund to use if Burleigh determined that a challenge of said law should be attempted and, if so, to take all necessary action to do so, including the filing of lawsuits, the association of special counsel, and the soliciting of support from other municipalities.

The casual voter may wonder just why the City Council should even think of spending public funds to fight any act called a disclosure of assets act.

Here are two views of this new law. The City Council – along with the City Planning Commission – seems to feel there are already quite enough so-called conflict of interest laws to keep public officials on the straight-and-narrow without any new law such as this disclousres of assets act.

In its resolution directing City Attorney Burleigh to seek legal redress against the application of the new law, the Carmel City Council said " . . . The law is an abhorrent invasion of the personal right of privacy . . . "

To clinch its argument for seeking legal remedy, the Cuncil said "...an informal poll . . . among public officers . . " indicated that "3 councilmen, 4 planning commissioners, 3 cultural commissioners, 2 forestry commissioners, 3 library board members and one department head" would "resign rather than subject their personal affairs to public scrutiny."

If this informal poll gave a true picture of the quantity of resignations which would be filed by mid-April, the City Council presumably would have sufficient grounds to initiate the kind of legal action which is proposed, because – in such a mass resignation – neither the City Council nor the Planning Commission, would have enough members left to conduct legally valid meetings.

In any event, city fathers did decide – and they decided unanimously – to start City Attorney Burleigh on a legal course which might eventually lead to an alteration or modification of the law.

Believing that in numbers there is strength, the City Council direct City Administrator Hugh Bayless ". . . to solicit monetary support from other California cities, in order more equitably to distribute the financial burden of opposing this law . . ." The Council resolution added that ". . . it appears that 27 cities oppose this law and will monetarily support an effort to enjoin its enforcement . . ."

Chamber Music Society to present Mills Players in concert Feb. 14 at Sunset

To the delight of all who have heard this fine group perform before, the Peninsula Chamber Music Society will present the Mills Players in concert at 8:30 on Saturday, Feb. 14, in the Sunset Cultural Center Theater.

Also, for local residents who may not be members of the Chamber Music Society, the program will again be presented in a theater large enough to permit tickets to be sold at the door to the general public.

This fine group, coming from Mills College, consists of Nathan Rubin, violin; Donald O'Brien, clarinet; Sally Kell, cello; and Naomi Sparrow, piano. The Players will perform works by Brahms, Haydn, and Bartok in an interesting and varied program.

Nethan Rubin has been affiliated with the Mills College music faculty since 1955. He has served as Director of the Mills Performing Group, a major music venture established in 1963, by a three-year grant from the San Francisco Foundation and augmented in 1965 by a one-year grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. In 1966, together with the San Francisco Tape Music Center (which subsequently moved to the Mills campus), the Mills Performing Group received a four-year Rockefeller Grant for the purpose of establishing at Mills College a center for the composition, performance and study of contemporary music.

Naomi Sparrow has been associated with the Mills College music faculty since 1956. She was a member of the widely-acclaimed Mills Chamber Players – an ensemble of four Mills faculty artists who made their initial bow to West Coast audiences in 1960. In 1964, the Chamber Players formed the nucleus of the Mills College Performing Group, a major music venture established by a three-year grant from the San Francisco Foundagion – and currently operating under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Donald O'Brien, a member of the nucleus chamber group – the "touring group" of the Performing Group since 1956, when he replaced Morton Subotnick. O'Brien had played with the augmented Performing Group in concerts for two years before that; also with Oakland and San Francisco Symphonies and San Francisco Opera and Ballet orchestras.

Sally Kell, cellist with the Mills Performing Group, began her study of the cello in her native city of Phoenix, Arizona, and was admitted to professional standing with the Phoenix Symphony at the age of 13. She subsequently continued her musical studies at the Music Academy of the West in Santa Barbara with Gabor Rejto, cellist of the Alma Trio, and at Mills College, where she graduated in 1957.

Miss Kell has been active in many phases of Bay Area music since that time. She is the principal cellist of the Oakland Symphony, of which she has been a member since 1959.

Oliver's Observations

By Carl D. Oliver

THERE'S REALLY no use in worrying about air pollution. Just as soon as it gets a little bit thicker, we can then turn it into a national park.

If you're thinking of turning your out-dated kitchen or bath room into a modern, up-to-date, functional room, you may be pleasantly surprised at how reasonably this can be done, especially if you're a do-it-yourself man. At H & H Supply, where you'll se everything for the home, you'll get ideas galore. So surprise yourself – visit H & H Supply soon, in Seaside at 1449 Canyon Del Rey, corner Del Monte. Helpful, courteous personnel to serve you.

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

Not all of you throughout the county had the chance to read an editorial by Norm Nuck, editor of the King City Rustler, but the point he brought out, and brought out well, was the fact that farmers over the years were probably the original conservationalists.

I think I can safely say farmers of today and the true conservationists have many things in common.

After the first sod was broken in the middle west in the early 1800's id did not take our forefathers long to realize certain landsaving practices would have to be used if the soil was not going to blow away, or wash away, and if the fertility was going to be maintained over the years.

Contour farming on hill type land, the use of cover crops plowed back into the soil and the practice of summer fallowing, all of these were actually some of our first conservation practices and were designed to conserve the soil for our generation.

Another area of common ground between conservationists and farmers lies in the desire for open space conservation. It is the obligation of all of us to preserve this land for the next generation and the generation to follow.

Recently we have heard a great deal about one segment of the farming industry, that of the pesticide, DDT and DDD. These are hard type pesticides which do not break down.

Most of us, including many of the farmers I know, feel that DDT and DDD should be phased out because scientists have shown the after effects are detrimental to our ecology.

It is interesting to note that in 1921 when the United States had a little over a hundred million people, we were farming about the same amount of acreage that we are farming today in 1970, except today we are feeding almost two hundred million people.

In other words, the same acreage today is feeding just double the amount of people it did fity years ago.

I personally do not believe this would be possible if it were not for our private enterprise system which gave us the incentive along with the increased knowledge on fertilizers, pesticides and improved irrigation practices.

Common sense tells us that it would be impossible to feed two hundred million people if all pesticides were eliminated, in fact I doubt if we could feed one half this number.

You may or may not have noticed in the local papers recently where I was honored by being appointed vice-chairman of the Assembly Natural Resources and Conservation Committee by the Speaker of the Assembly.

I was indeed grateful and humble in accepting this position especially when our office learned that a recent poll taken by the Assembly staff showed that 92% of the 80 Assembly Legislators asked to be apointed to the Natural Resources and Conservation Committee this year. The Committee has only 12 members.

As vice-chairman of this committee in the year ahead, it is my job to try to separate the truly constructive legislation from that which is obviously the product of a group or groups who are using a specific issue to promote themselves politically with little thought of the far reaching consequences of our environment.

However, I honestly feel the majority of the proposed legislation will be sound and justified. Enough for now...

Bank of America sets new rates

Bank of America has announced its savings and time deposit rates made possible by the new Federal Reserve Board regulations.

The bank's rates in all categories are the highest permitted by law, according to August H. Johnson, Manager of the bank's Carmel Branch.

Passbook savings will carry a rate of 4½ per cent effective February 1. The February 1st date was selected in order to make the rate transition on a calendar month basis.

Effective immediately, time deposits with maturities under one year, and in amounts less than $100,000 or over, rates will increase from ¾ per cent to 1¼ per cent according to the following schedule:

30-59 days, 6¼ per cent; 60-89 days, 6½ per cent; 90-179 days, 6¾ per cent; 180-364 days, 7 per cent; and one year, 7½ per cent.

Young driver insurance rates can be reduced

Higher insurance rates, when a young person starts driving the family car, can be reduced, says the Insurance Information Institute.

Most insurance companies offer a premium discount for young motorists who have satisfactorily completed a recognized driver education course in high school or college.

Less well known is the fact that many insurers also discount the premium up to 25 percent for young drivers who maintain good grades in school, the Institute states, reflecting the fact that generally good students also have good driving records.

Califonia teenage drivers make up 7.2 percent of the state's licensed driver population, yet as victims and drivers are involved in 16.4 percent of the state's fatal and injury accidents.

Nationally, 20.9 percent of drivers are under age 25, but were involved in 34.6 percent of reported accidents and 33.9 percent of fatal accidents in 1968, That year, 1,392 young people, as drivers or passengers, were killed in accidents.

BofA quarterly dividends

A regular quarterly dividend of 55 cents a share on the capital stock of BankAmerica Corporation has been authorized by the corporation's board of directors.

The dividend, which is at the annual rate of $2.20 per share, is payable February 27, to shareholders of record January 30.

BANK OF AMERICA RAISES THE RATES FOR SAVERS

Personal Choice savings plans now offer more for your money. One: you have many plans to choose from. And two: we've raised the interest rates.

Of course, we could mention a third: your savings enjoy the protection of the world's largest bank. So let your money go to work at Bank of America. The pay is good.

4½% Regular Savings
Starting February 1st, your interest will be increased to 4½% computed daily and compounded quarterly. Deposits made by the tenth of each quarter earn interest from the first. Your funds are immediately available. You can put money in. Take it out. Any time, any amount.

5% Investors' Passbook
This is the passbook account that pays you more for leaving your money with us for at least 90 days. The 5% interest is compounded quarterly. You can withdraw interest during the first 10 days of any calendar quarter.

You can also withdraw principal at that time, providing it's been on deposit a full calendar quarter. A 90-day written notice will also release funds. $500 opens an account. Additional deposits are made in $100 amounts or more.

5¾% Certificates of Deposit
We've lowered the entrance requirements and raised the rate from 5% on maturities of one year or longer. These Certificates are issued for $500 or more. Two year Certificates now earn 5¾%.

Let us safeguard your money for one year, and we'll pay you 5½% quarterly. These new rates are effective immediately.

7½% Certificates of Deposit
Large deposits—$100,000 or more—now earn 7½% if left with us a year. The interest rates on these Certificates range from 6¼% to 7½% depending on their maturity. These represent an increase of ¾% to 1¼% over previous rates.

Whatever Personal Choice Savings plan you choose, Bank of America has your best interest in mind.

CONFETTI CUTTERS – Mrs. Larry Parent, a member of the Monterey Civic Club, explains the history of the cascarone to 4th grade students at Monte Vista School. During the early days of California, a caballero would break the brightly colored eggshell filled with perfumed confetti over the head of the girl of his choice and claim her as his partner. The old custom will be revived Feb. 7 at Monterey's Cascarone Ball. Cascarones made by 4th and 5th grade students on the Peninsula will be on sale at the ball and proceeds will help finance Bicentennial activities.

Debate honors for D. Howell

Dixie Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Howell of Pebble Beach, was named top speaker at the National Invitational Debate Tournament held at Stanford last month.

Dixie, a 21 year old senior in speech at UCLA, also won the third best speaker award at the second annual Ford National Invitational Debate Tournament at Oberlin College in Ohio.

Poetry contest is announced

The Ina Coolbrith Circle, which sponsors a biannual contest for poetry, has announced its spring competition open to authors of poems and verses that have been published in California newspapers.

Cash awards will be offered in tribute to the memory of Ad Shuster, Jack Burroughs and Arthur Price, eminent journalists of the Oakland Tribune and San Francisco Examiner who published poetry columns for many years.

Any California resident is eligible to enter not more than two previously unpublished poems of his own authorship which appeared in California newspaper/s from January 1, 1968 to December 31, 1969, inclusive.

Entries should be either the actual clipping/s or clear photostat copies thereof and may be affixed to 8½" x 11" white page to provide space for name and address of author, name of newspaper and city in which it is published and the date of the verse or poem publication in the event they do not appear on the clipping or photostat.

An entry fee of $1 should be enclosed in the envelope with submissions of non-members. Enclosing a self-addressed postcard will provide acknowledgment of receipt. A stamped, self-addressed envelope will assure return of entries.

Deadline for entries is Mar. 1, 1970. Mail to Paul Lewis, Contest Chairman, 131 Jules Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94112. Decision of judges is final.

The winners will be announced in May and awards will be presented on Sunday, May 31 at 2:30 p.m., Room 401, Marines' Memorial Building, San Francisco.

The entry fee will be used to enlarge the amount of awards already established in the Circle's Schuster-Price-Burroughts Award Fund.

Ina Coolbrith, California's first poet laureate, was the first white child to enter California by way of the Beckwourth Pass. Explorer and pioneer Jim Beckwourth perched her up in front of his saddle so that she could enter California even ahead of him.

During her long life she worked as a librarian. Isadora Duncan and Jack London used to come to her for books at the Oakland Public Library. She was also the friend of George Sterling and Mary Austin, early settlers of Carmel.

The figure of Ina Coolbrith looms large in the history of California literature. Her long life of 87 years spanned a large part of the history of our country. She wrote of the 20th century but echoed a strain out of the past.

Dr. John R. Hainds of Carmel has been named to the first general membership role of the Northern Illinois University Foundation.

'The Crucible', exciting witchcraft trials drama

"The Crucible," Arthur Miller's drmatic play about the Salem witchcraft trials of 1692, opens this Friday, Feb. 6 at the Circle Theatre, Carmel, as a presentation of the Community Theatre.

This exciting play features a 17-member cast under the direction of Michael Keller.

Milton Hayes plays the rebellious farmer, John Proctor, a man who fights against the loss of his identity. His wife, Elizabeth, accused of being a witch, will be played by Jean McBride. Both Hayes and Miss McBride are 1969 Golden Bough Circle Award winners.

The lies accusing men and women of Salem of being possessed of Lucifer were started by a quartet of evil children.

MPC Drama Dept. graduates Mindy Stock has been cast as the taunting Abigail, and Kay Walter as the sly servant girl, Mercy Lewis. Portrayeng the naive, lonely Mary Warren is Evelyn Hughes, with Janet Goff in the role of the confused Betty Parris.

Even gentle souls as repsected and loved as Rebecca Nurse could not escape the cry of witchcraft. Gloria Wheeler has been cast in this difficult role. Her accusers were the embittered and jealous Ann and Thomas Putnam, to be played by Peggy Heater and Don Reed.

New to the Circle stage is Drew Devendorf in the role of Giles Corey, a comical hero in Salem history, a crank and a nuisance, but a man innocent of witchery who died bravely under stone.

John Doolittle plays Rev. Samuel Parris, a preacher who cuts a villainous path in history. Rev. Parriss summons Rev. John Hale, an eager-eyed intellectural from the town of Beverly, to ascertain if witchcraft is present in Salem. Hale, to be portrayed by Robert Heater, arrives to do battle with the Devil himself.

Joyce Malikoff, as Tituba, the slave Rev. Parriss has brought to Salem from Barbados, confesses to having compacted with the Devil in one of the most terror-ridden scens in the play.

The government of Massachusetts sent many weighty magistrates to Salem to hold the famous witch trials. In "The Crucible," Arthur Miller, believing that these judges were dedicated to evil, has symbolized them all in Judge Hathorne, to be played by Jerry Van Steenbergen, and Deputy-Governor Danforth, played by W. H. Scholefield.

The large cast is completed by Ken Barrette in the role of the tailor, Cheever, who suddenly finds himself drunk with power when he becomes Clerk of the Court. Scott Wheeler plays John Willard, the town marshal.

After its opening on Friday, "The Crucible" will play weekends through March 14 on Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m., and on Sundays at 7:30 p.m. Reservations for all performances are now being accepted by calling 624-2669.

Talented cast heads Studio Theater production of 'The Seven Year Itch'

"The Seven Year Itch" which opens Friday at the Studio Theatre- Restaurant offers comedian Dick Vreeland a vehicle worthy of the talents he demonstrated in "The Odd Couple" and "Send Me No Flowers."

As Richard Sherman, temporarily a bachelor while his wife escapes a New York summer, Vreeland has full opportunity to show why George Axelrod's comedy ran 1,141 performances on Broadway.

To the Girl Upstairs, the personification of temptation, Alena Johnston brings talent sharpened by movie roles in "Funny Girl" and "The Ambushers" and beauty recognized by Steve Crouch in selecting her for his Gallery in the Herald.

Edie Donahoe (Helen Sherman) returns to the Studio after a recent appearance as the giddy debutante of "Black Comedy," while Dennis Weaver (Dr. Brubaker) progresses to eccentric psychiatrist after playing the comic chef of "Don't Drink The Water."

Pete Walters (Tom MacKenzie), imagined by Richard to be pursuing his wife, moves to the Studio from "Light Up The Sky" at the Circle. Amy Lynn Vreeland (Amy) follows in her father's footsteps in her first stage appearance as the Sherman's young daughter.

Populating the hilarious dream sequences based on the hero's fantasies are Toni Hyland (Miss Morris), Sharon Law (Elaine) and Brit Lind (Marie Whatever-Her-Name-Was), each of whom has gained experience on various stages here or elsewhere.

Mary Payne (Voice of the Girl's Conscience) masterminded the light cues of "Black Comedy" in which Paul M. Boczkowski (Voice of Richard's Conscience) played after his role in "Don't Drink the Water."

Under the direction of Bill Asp, "The Seven Year Itch" will run Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights at the Studio to mid-March. Reservations for all performances may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

Movie Review

Battle of Britain – The 16-week aerial battle which was to be one of the most crucial military conflicts in history is worthily documented with the aid of a host of fine actors. At the Village Theater in Carmel.

Will Penny – In an unglamorized view of Western life in the 1880s, Charlton Heston plays an itenerant cowboy brought briefly in contact with a home, a family and love. At the Valley Cinema.

The Sterile Cuckoo – Liza Minnelli, daughter of the late Judy Garland, is a supercharged portrayal of a zany, vulnerable and motherless girl and her first love. Wendell Burton is the eranest, quiet boy. At the Regency.

Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice – An irreverent social satire, slick in its trimmings and backgrounds with a sharp bite in its characters, dialogue and frank appraisal of modern marriage and mores. Golden Bough.

The Secret of Santa Vittoria – Anthony Quinn and Anna Magnani are an unbeatable combination. In this story of World War II, Quinn and the villagers of a little Italian town cope with Nazi intruders who want to confiscate their treasured wine. At the Steinbeck.

Alice's Restaurant – A melange of documentary and fiction, this is an account of folk singer Arlo Guthrie s' arrest for littering. Establishment spoofing at its best. At the Marina Automovie.

The Charge of the Light Brigade – Director Tony Richardson's searing film describing English social conditions in the 1850s that led to her defeat in the Crimea. With Trevor Howard, John Gielgud, Vanessa Redgrave and David Hemmings. At the Village.

Yellow Submarine – Stunning visual effects and great Beatle music contribute to this animated movie which proves that the art of animation did not begin and end with Walt Disney. At the Marina Automovie.

Gone With the Wind – Considered the greatest motion picture of all time. Clark Gable, Vivian Leigh star in the film production of Margaret Mitchell's epic novel of the south during the Civil War. At Cinema 70 in 70 milimeter and stereophonic sound until Feb. 6.

True Grit – Justice is done to the Charles Portis novel as John Wayne heads a carefully chosen cast in a typical John Wayner. A delicate balance is preserved between tall-tale western spoof and an engrossing chase. At the Valley Cinema.

'Pre-Lenten Festivities'

The Germans have that pre-Lenten madness called Fasching, their glittering annual Karneval celebration. Excitement and merriment last a week with the climax on Rosenmontag, the Monday before Ash Wednesday, at fantastically expensive costume balls through Western Germany.

Other European countries – France, Spain, Italy and our neighbor Canada – have gay masked balls also. The carnival season in Latin America is immensely colorful and like a crazy mounting fever.

In Brazil carnival time produces many authentic Baiana costumes at wild masquerades. Modern Brazilian ladies have taken flamboyant liberties in adapting the style and enriching the materials for carnival use.

This consists of gayly colored very full skirts worn over several stiff petticoats and topped with white short-sleeved blouses trimmed with Brazilian handmade lace. A turban is worn tightly draped around the head. Without the abundant strings of glass beads, gold chains, bracelets, amulets, enormous earrings and with open sandals on her feet, the Baiana is not complete.

Native candy making is rampant during carnival week and we give tempting examples of these sweets in our international pre-Lenten recipes.

New Orleans tops the celebrations in the U.S.A. The spirit of Mardi Gras is as lively and elegant there as in France. Elaborate and formal dinners with impeccable service and course after course of exquisite cuisine can be a revelation.

But the samll cafes and vendors' stands also contain savory satisfying dishes.

Creole cooks know how to blend herbs into their local specialties. If you have no faith in the potency of their seasoning, don't try Creole Cookery! Instinctively they know just the right amount to add without measuring.

Tampa, Florida has its own celebration called "Gasparilla Invasion" which coincides with the starting of Lent. It is a pirate festival and captures the history of that semi-tropical area in one joyful week of merrymaking.

Now we come to our own traditional pre-Lenten fiesta beloved by Monterey Peninsulans. This dazzling party, which the Monterey Civic Club revived about 31 years ago, will take place in the grand ballroom of the Naval Postgraduate School on Feb. 7.

El Baile de los Cascarones was described in Walter Colton's diary in 1850. In those days they were held now and then at the different ranchos belonging to descendants of Royal Grants during the Spanish regime. Later these colorful events, circa 1900, were enjoyed only on Shrove Tuesday at the old Del Monte Hotel.

Dancing until the early morning hours requires sustaining nourishment in any case. We are giving a specialty from several countries with emphasis on Viejo Monterey. Abroad and at home, pre-Lenten festivals give a "if winter comes can Spring be far behind" encouragement.

Fasching Little Pies

This is especially for children celebrating Fasching or Carnival Time in Germany and Austria. What fun, masks and food.

One 8 oz. pkg. pitted dates, snipped; 1 (1 lb., 1 oz.) can apricot halves, drained, chopped, reserving syrup; ½ cup chopped almonds; 4 cups sifted flour; 1½ t. salt; 2 T. baking powder; ½ cup shortening; 1½ cups milk; ½ t. ground cinnamon; 2 T. sugar; butter; hot shortening for frying.

Combine first four items in saucepan. Bring to a gentle boil for about 15 min. Stir so as not to burn. Sift together next three items. Cut in shortening until it resembles meal. Blend in milk.

Add cinnamon, sugar, a little melted butter. Make into pastry dough, cut into triangles, fill each with fruit mixture. Fold over, press edges together with fork prongs and melted butter. Fry in deep hot shortening. Drain on brown paper. Pour a little of the reserve syrup over each tart while still warm.

Finger lickin' good, as we say in the U.S.A.

In Quebec, Canada, Carnaval is icy cold but stimulating. Parades of "caricatures" carved from ice along the banks of frozen St. Lawrence River are foiled by great bowls of that fabulous native

Soupe de Pois Habitant (Canadian Pea Soup)

One lb. split yellow peas; 4 chopped onions; 1 T. salt; ground pepper to taste; 2 qts. broth; ½ lb. salt pork in inch cubes or Canadian bacon or ham hock, already cooked (save water as broth). If you haven't the broth use water. Two celery stalks, diced, plus leaves; Chervil, marjoram, or savory plus parsley springs with stems.

Dice the bacon with scissors and fry until crisp. Remove bacon and add butter and onions. Saute to a golden color. Simmer, minus bacon, with herbs, for about 1½ hours covered, until right consistency. Stir often with wooden spoon. Never allow to scorch.

Add crumbled bacon or cut up ham. The pork is sliced (it has cooked along with the paes) and eaten on hot cornbread which always accompanies the soup. Do not mash or sieve the yellow peas. They are traditionally left in little chunks of goodness. Serves 8.

In Brazil, the classic and colorful figure of the Baiana, described in our introduction, is found in all large cities. You will see her, elegantly poised, as she balances a tray of candy on her turbaned head. Often she is sitting on the small tamborete which is part of her equipment.

Brazil Nut Balls

One can condensed milk, large size; 1 cup Brazil nuts, choppped or ground; 1 T. butter; vanilla or almond flavoring;

Heat condensed milk over low flame, stirring constantly. When mixture is thick enough to hold its shape away from the sides of pan (238-245 F.). add butter and nuts. Beat well, remove from heat and cool. Add flavoring, shape into balls and dry. Place in bonbon cups. Yields 25.

Peanut Creams

One cup white Karo; 3 cups sugar; 1½ cups water; 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten; 1 cup roasted peanuts, finely chopped; chocolate sprinkles. Heat Karo, sugar and water until it reaches the medium-ball stage (238-245 F.) Pour over stiffly beaten egg whites, beat well and add peanuts. Let stand overnight. Next day, shape into balls, coat with chocolate sprinkles. Put into small paper bon bon cups. Yields 60.

New Orleans surpasses all with its glamorous floats, beautiful girls, and handsome escorts. They all love

Raw Onion Soup

Scald 1 qt. rich milk; pour into bowl over 3 large sliced raw onions. Stir and press with back of spoon. Allow to stand an hour. Drain milk off onions. To milk add salt, white pepper, grated nutmeg, lump of butter, paprika. Reheat and serve this delicate soupe a l'oignon hot . . . with fried croutons and minced fresh parsley. The onions can be served on the side.

Oyster Loaf (The Peace Maker)

Nothing in New Orleans is better known than the "Peace Maker". It is a foolish husband who doesn't rely on it in case of need. In the old days when a man told his wife he was detained on business, the peace maker was a good thing. Even now, at one o'clock a.m. "La Mediatrice" pacifies.

The top crust of a loaf of French bread is cut off and the inside removed, leaving a long, boat-like affair. This is buttered and slipped into the oven to toast. It is then filled with 2 dozen breaded and fried oysters.

The buttered and toasted bread top is replaced and the whole wrapped in newspapers which the errant husband sheepishly carries back home under his arm. It keeps hot a long time. This was also used in early San Francisco for the same purpose.

During Gasparilla Week in Tampa, Florida one of the main attractions for tourists is the serving of free steaming garbanzo soup from the sidewalks of Ybor City, the Spanish suburb of Tampa. The amazing Cuban bread, more than a yard long, is always used to dip into the savory sopa. It's a crusty beige on the outside and 36 inches of delicate white fluff on the inside.

We are giving you Picadillo as served only at the Columbia Restaurant in Ybor City, Tampa.

Picadillo

Two large Spanish onions; ¾ cup pure olive oil; 2 green peppers; 2 cloves garlic; 3 lbs. ground round steak; 1 (2-lb.) can peeled tomatoes with juice; 2 T. capers; 1 can pitted black olives; ½ cup seedless raisins, 1 cup dry red wine.

In the oil, saute the chopped onions, green peppers and garlic. When golden, add the ground meat. Stir until light brown. Add tomatoes. After simmering about an hour, add capers, olives, raisins and red wine. Serve hot over white rice. Pass Tabasco.

For our own Monterey festivities after a night of revel, what hits the spot are

Huevos Rancheros

There are three kinds: fried, scrambled or poached eggs. Each is approached the same way by being covered with a salsa ranchero.

In heavy skillet put 2 T. olive or cooking oil and 2 sliced onions with 2 minced garlic cloves. Stir and when transparent, add 1 large can peeled tomatoes with salt, chili powder to taste. Add a small pinch of crumbled oregano, cumin, marjoram or rosemary. Transfer to Mexican pottery casserole. Break 6 very fresh eggs into same. Bake in 350 F. oven

Citizens Committee endorses Sanitary District bonds

Discussion – sometimes heated – about plans for expansion and improvement of local sewage handling facilities held center stage for most of last week's annual meeting of the Carmel Citizens' Committee (now 666 members strong according to an announcement made at the session).

The case for the Carmel Sanitary Board, and for the million-and-a-half-dollar bond issue it has decided to put on a Mar. 24 ballot, was presented by J. Wentworth Lewis, who heads that Board and shoe nerve-ends have become particularly sensitive in recent weeks because of criticism of the Board, since the County Health Department posted not only the Carmel River mouth area but also various other Monterey Bay off-shore waters against water-sports use.

Lewis pointed out that the Carmel Sanitary District plant now regularly handles less than a million-gallons-per-day of effluent though it has a capacity to handle one-and-a-half times that much. He also mentioned that much off-shore pollution is due to factors unrelated to Sanitary district activities. Pollutants, for examples, empty into the sea through the mouth of the Carmel River into which they collect along its course. Also areas with septic tanks – such as the Carmel Highlands and Pebble Beach – create pollution through subterranean seepage.

Lewis said additions and improvements ag the Carmel plant which will become possible, if the coming Mar. 24 bond election is successful, will substantially increase plant capacity for primary treatment of effluent and will make possible the start of secondary treatment.

Earl Moser, who presented the views of the Citizens' Committee board of directors, which had originally urged a bond issue larger than the one ordered by the Sanitary Board, said the Citizens' Committee board now wanted to go on record as being whole-heartedly behind the coming one-and-a-half-million-dollar bond issue.

Later in the meeting, when Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN, Ret.) asked for a show of hands by assembled Citizens' Committee members, as to whether the membership approved the board's action in giving its full backing to the coming bond issue, near-unanimous support was indicated.

Just before the conclusion of the meeting, Admiral Fisher introduced Kent Seavey, director of the Carmel Museum of Art, who said his Museum board had asked the City Council to put a question on the coming Apr. 14 municipal election ballot to ask voters if they would want the City to take over operation of the Museum, located in the former bank building near the corner of Dolores and 7th. Cost of maintaining the Museum can no longer be borne by the private citizens – notably Mr. and Mrs. Anthony White – who have so far provided the bulk of the fiscal support for the Museum. (As the Pine Cone was going to press, the City Council last night was preparing to decide whether or not to put the Museum question on the coming City ballot).

Seavey said he hoped voters would consider the Museum issue favorably if it should be placed on the ballot, and Admiral Fisher added his unequivocal endorsement of a "yes" vote on such a ballot issue, which is also the Pine Cone's position.

Four from Carmel enlist in Army

Four people from the Carmel area, including a girl, enlisted for service with the United States Army during January.

The girl was Jean H. Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Allen. She volunteered for service in the Womens Army Corps and will receive training in the Medical Care and Treatment Field.

Men enlisting were, Raymond R. Jasper II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Jasper; James L. Lyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Lyon; and Harry L. Smith, husband of Mrs. Rosemary L. Smith.

Hi-12 moves to La Playa Hotel

High Twelve Club of Carmel-by-the-Sea President Jim Scales has announced that the club will hold Monday meetings at the La Playa Hotel during February.

Approximately 100 members attend the weekly luncheon meetings.

One reason for the large attendance is the interesting programs arranged by Club V.P. Web Downer.

The present schedule includes a talk by Arthur Chang, director of Monterey's URban Renewal Project on Feb. 2. On Feb. 9, Keith Badham, director of the Youth Science center of Monterey County will inform the club of actions being taken to further interest our youth in scientific areas.

Feb. 16 the ladies are invited for a Valentine luncheon.

Reservations are important. Feb. 23 Major General Roy Lassetter (USA ret) will speak to the Club.

Recent new members include George Conway, Earl Vernon, Douglas Kueny, and Harold Osborne of Carmel, Milton Frickie of Carmel Valley, Dan King of Pacific Grove, John Caldwell and Donald Campbell of Monterey.

In the 14th Century, the tents used by the Tartar Conqueror Tamerlane were made of ingeniously woven silken tapestries which were transparent to occupants of the tents but opaque to passersby.

Planning group grants use permit to Dr. Stiff; protests new assets law

The last item on the City Planning Commission's agenda for the last week's meeting became the first as members discussed a letter addressed to the governor and to state legislators.

The letter expressed the Commission's opposition to the new state declaration of assets law (which is described elsewhere in this issue of the Pine Cone), and it bore the signatures of all seven members of the Commission. In their letter, Commissioners said " . . . we believe this measure to be an invasion of our rights as private citizens. . . "

In other action, the Commission granted a use permit to Dr. Donald Stiff who wanted to divide an 8,000-square-foot parcel of land into two separate building sites. The Commission attached a provide to its granting of the permit: A car parking facility must be established within the boundaries of the separate lot on which presently a house is situated before the other lot can become a second building site. The property is located on Monte Verde street between 3rd and 4th.

The Commission did not find the design of a proposed new fence at the motel owned by the Charles Catalans, located at Carmelo and Ocean avenue, to be acceptable, and asked that a revised design be submitted in time for the February 18 meeting.

Consideration of several agenda matters was postponed, pending further study. One such matter concerned steps to be taken to preserve "canyon areas" in their natural state. Another concerned "garage or carport replacement requirements."

Though the program for the coming county-wide annual planning conference to be held at Asilomar have not been set, Commissioners discussed plans for the series of meetings which will emphasize the importance of environmental and traffic elements of city planning programs.

No action was taken on proposals to control business building sites and to apply restraints on motel expansion, though consideration of those matters – which had been on the preceding week's agenda – had been postponed simply because of the length of the meeting the week before.

Electricity use up, says PG&E

Consumption of electricity, often regarded as a barometer of economic viror, has increased 77 percent since 1960 for residential customers of Pacific Gas and Electric Company in Northern and Central California.

The average residential electric use per customer was 5573 kilowatt-hours per year at the close of 1969, according to PG & E , compared with the 1959 figure of 3154 kwh.

Purity THE Friendly STORE

Do you want to believe in God?

You can. Not just because of what someone says about God. But because of what you yourself can learn and prove about divine Love.

Like the woman who was instantly freed by an assailant one night – when she turned to God in prayer. Or the entertainer whose back was healed through prayer after he was told he couldn't walk without surgery.

These individuals found that divine Love meets even the most challenging human needs . . . that powerful spiritual laws are available for anyone to use.

You can learn more of these laws by reading this week's Bible Lesson.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND YOU

by Raymond MacDonald

Q. I hear the term "benefit period" used in connection with Medicare. What is a benefit period?

A. A "benefit period" is simply a period of time for measuring your use of hospital insurance benefits. This is how it works. The first time you enter a hospital after your hospital insurance starts will be the beginning of your first benefit period. Your first benefit period ends as soon as you have not been a bed patient in any hospital (or any facility that mainly provides skilled nursing care) for 60 days in a row.

Q. How does Federal Employees' Health Benefits coverage compare with Medicare coverage?

A. Federal Employees' Health Benefits gives generally the same protection as Medicare plus certain items such as prescription drugs and private nurses which are not covered by Medicare. Usually the Federal plan will not cover extended care facility or home health agency services.

Q. I am covered by Federal Employees' Health Benefits in addition to Medicare. Can I collect from both programs on my medical bills?

A. No. The Federal plans contain an anti-duplication clause. They supplement Medicare by paying for certain items which Medicare will not pay but they will not duplicate Medicare payments.

Mrs. Klenke, pioneer Carmel resident, dies at 93

Mrs. Jeanie C. Klenke died recently in a local convalescent hospital after a brief illness. She was 93.

Her grandparents came to the Peninsula in 1856 and were engaged in farming near Carmel and on the Salinas River.

Mrs. Klenke was a native of Oakland. She moved to Carmel from Hollywood after the death of her husbnad, the late August Klenke.

She and her sister, the noted artist, M. deNeale Morgan, operated a gallery and studio in Carmel, and after the death of her gifted sister in 1948, Mrs. Klenke maintained the home and the studio and displayed Miss Morgan's work.

Among Mrs. Klenke's varied activities were bookbinding and framing crafts She was also a member of the Carmel Music Society and the Monterey County Symphony Association. She took an active interest in Carmel's physical welfare as well as its cultural preservation.

Memorial contributions may be made to All Saints' Church of Carmel.

Blind group seeks camp counselors

Enhanted Hills Camp for the Blind is now accepting applications for camp counselors for the summer 1970 camping sessions.

The camp, located in the Redwood country near Napa, California needs counselors with a Water Safety Instructors certificate, counselors who know all sports and are able to teach them.

Creative craft teacher-counsellors and counsellors to lead singing and help set up evening entertainment programs are needed, along with nature study counsellors and campcraft counsellors with a knowledge of outdoor living, and general counsellors with a knowledge of and past camping experience. For young persons interested in recreation, physical education or special education, counselling at Enchanted Hills Camp for the Blind would be excellent training.

Those interested are requested to contact Mrs. Corky Rich, Camp Director, 432 Appalachian Way, Martinez, California.

OBITUARY

Gertrude Clara Maloney 74, has died after a period of failing health in her Carmel home.

She and her cousin, Miss Isabel F. Chaplin lived in Carmel for the past three years.

Contributions to her memory may be made to the Community Hospital building fund, Box HH, Carmel.

CARMEL, CAL. FEB. 3, 1915

SUBSCRIPTION $1.00 PER YEAR

Permit Us.

We have come to stay—

Yes, we know you have read the foregoing statement before, but let us conclude the sentence.

—as long as the general public and the business interests of Carmel prosper us or suffer us to remain.

To permit this journal to struggle and languish — and mayhap die—would be a far greater black-eye and loss to the community than to the publisher.

The foundation for the establishment of this weekly publication is a profound confidence in the future—and that not distant—prosperity of our beloved Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Every resident, be he business man, artist, writer, mechanic or laborer, should be as much interested in the ultimate success of this, your "hum" paper, as the publisher.

As one resident puts it, "the advent of a newspaper into a community is the beginning of a new era."

Begin To-day.

You owe it to yourself no less than to your village to patronize the home merchant.

The local store-keeper has a perfect right to expect you to expend your money in his place of business.

He lives here, pays taxes, contributes generously to various funds both for charity and art, and takes a vast interest in the material progress of the community.

If his prices, in your opinion, are too high, tell him so. Show him the error of his way.

Sending money to mail-order concerns helps the place where you reside not one whit.

If you do not happen to see on display what you desire do not assume that he does not carry the object, but ask for it.

Spend your money at home—where it will do most good.

Read "Pine Cone" ads.

After visiting the Panama Pacific or San Diego Expositions, rest at Carmel.

Digest This.

Those who are interested in Carmel are not devoting their lives to the mere making of money. They do not buy property to speculate. They buy because they have use for the purchase. They come to make permanent homes; and when they really want anything they are willing to pay for it what it is worth.

The existence of the community, now estimated to be about 600, with a summer increase to 1200. is rapidly bringing metropolitan conveniences, and this has in the past added and will in the future add rapidly to the value of property.

The so-called unearned increment is an increase brought about by the community of interest of a number of people devoted to social and economic needs of a similar character, and is really the product of the community itself

The increase in the past is but a small criterion of what it is destined to be in Carmel in the near future.

Get the moral.

Before summer is upon us it is to be hoped that something will be done toward providing adequate fire-fighting apparatus.

If Billy Sunday should come to Carmel, what would he find? Signed replies may be published in the Pine Cone.

Impressions of Carmel

By ARGYLL CAMPBELL

On my way here last summer the Carmel motor stage chugged its way to the crown of a hill, swung around a sharp turn, and brought to view through the spaces of a forest a bay blue as that of Naples and an altogether impossible sunset.

The unexpected beauty of the scene held the passengers silent for a moment; then an enthusiastic young woman exclaimed:

"Isn't it too grand for anything?"

"Adorable!" agreed her companion.

These two young women, no doubt, sensed the the lovliness they looked upon but were unable to adequately translate their realization to words.

I find myself hampered by a similar inaptness of expression in endeavoring to give my impressions of Carmel.

However, as California is the garden of America, so, to me, is Carmel its Eden. Here the pines, and hills and waters meet, and the north and south join hands under skies as blue as Italy boasts. The cool filter of ocean fog tempers the downbeat of the sun in summer when the inland swelters in the heat. In the winter, if we may call it such, the fog withdraws to the edge of the sea to take a colorful part in the indescribe sunsets, leaving Carmel to be flooded with the unhindered rays of the sun.

Here is the verdure of the North without its storms, and the warmth of the South without its aridity. Of all California it was Carmel that the sweet-souled Serra loved---and those of us who have followed here will understand.

GOETHALS

A man went down to Panama,
Where many a man had died,
To slit the sliding mountains
And lift the eternal tide.
A man stood up in Panama,
And the mountains stood aside.

The power that wrought the tide and peak
Wrought mightier the seer;
And the One who made the isthmus
He made the engineer,
And the good God He made Goethals
To cleve the hemisphere.

The reek of fevered ages rose
From poisoned jungle and strand,
Where the crumbling wrecks of failure
Lay sunk in the torrid sand---
Derelicts of old desperate hopes
And venal contraband:

Till a mind glowed white through the yellow mist
And purged the poison-mold,
And the wrecks rose up in labor,
And the fever's knell was tolled,
And the keen mind cut the world-divide,
Untarnished by world-gold:

For a poet wrought in Panama
With a continent for his theme,
And he wrote with flood and fire
To forge a planet's dream,
And the derricks rang his dithyrambs
And his stanzas roared in steam.

But the poet's mind it is not his Alone, but a million men's:
Far visions of lonely dreamers
Meet there as in a lens,
And lightnings, pent by stormy time
Leap through with flame intense:

So through our age three giants loom
To vouch man's venturous soul:
Amundsen on his ice-peak,
And Peary from his pole,
And midway where the oceans meet,
Goethals---beside his goal:

Where old Balboa bent his gaze
He leads the liners through,
And the Horn that tossed Magellan
Bellows a far halloo,
For where the navies never sailed
Steamed Goethals and his crew:

So nevermore the tropic routes
Need poleward warp and veer,
But on through the Gates of Goethals
The steady keels shall steer,
Where the tribes of man are led toward peace
By the prohpet engineer.

Carmel Mission

The Mission of San Carlos, so named after St. Charles Borromeo, and now popularly termed Carmel Mission, was erected under the direction of Father Junipero Serra in 1771, by California Indians. Thanks to the zeal of a number of public-spirited and devout residents of the state, the mission is in a good state of preservation.

This historic pile is the best known of all the California missions. It is located at the head of the beautiful and productive Carmel valley and is distant about three-quarters of a mile from the business section of the village. Good roads lead to the mission.

It is in this building, within the sanctuary, that Father Serra is buried.

Rev. Father R. Mestres, of Monterey, is in charge of the church.

An Art Commission.

A bill has been introduced in the California state legislature to create a state art commission of five members, the governor, architect, a painter and a sculptor and two others interested in art, all to serve without compensation. Senator Birdsall is the author. No works of art to become the property of the state unless approved by the commission, and supervision over the ulterior aspects of bridges, highways, parks and other state property is given the commission.

Allen Bier in Concert.

Last Friday evening Allen Bier, the accomplished musician who has many friends in Carmel, made his first public appearance at the concert of the Pacific Musical Society, at the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco.

A Talk on Trees.

On Friday evening of this week H. A. Green of Monterey will give "A Talk on Trees" at Arts and Crafts Hall. The public is invited. There is no admission charge. The affair is given under the auspices of Riverside reading circle.

Ye Carmelians Good Morning

By WM. GREER HARRISON

Is not the morning good? Why hesitate so say so to the first Carmelian you meet? It is a wish, and will make glad the heart of him who hears and of him who speaks.

Why do we love Carmel? Because physically it is the most lovable spot in this fair land, and because its people are loveable and are unique in their independence. The men and women of Carmel are gentle-folks, they are polite in the best sense of that word. They have brains and individuality and when any two meet some thought is expressed that is of value and worth remembering.

The ethical value of life in Carmel is not to be measured. We live close to nature. We rejoice in color, we think in color, and we express our thoughts in color. Every thought has beauty in it.

Carmel is a musical center, for either the ocean or the pines fill out hearts with song and psalm every hour of the day.

Awake Carmelians and behold the dawn---the birth of a new day; now close your eyes until you have seen the glory of the setting sun and feel the promise of the future. Watch the dance of light when the moon smiles upon the sea, and rejoice.

The woods are yours: they are full of jewels --- feathered jewels; watch their ariel flight, not with gun, but with sympathy in your heart.

Go down to the beach and see the dainty, delicate sea-birds assembling for their morning parade of beauty.

Climb Carmel and gaze out upon the varied scenes which spread themselves for your special joy.

Wander through the canyons and find the grace of God in flower, plant and fern life, and then thank the Master of the Universe that He made Carmel for you, and that He directed your steps to the valley of peace, the home of beauty and the place where the souls of all good thoughts have their abiding---in the shadows of the dawn and in the golden mist where the sun says good-night to Carmel.

PLANT TREES

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
We plant the ship which will cross the sea;
We plant the mast to carry the sails,
We plant the plank to withstand the gales,
The keel, the keelson, and beam and knee;
We plant the ship when we plant the tree.

We plant the houses for you and me;
We plant the rafters, the shingles, the floors,
We plant the studding, the laths, the doors,
The beams and siding, all parts that be;
We plant the house when we plan the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
A thousand things that we daily see;
We plant the spire that out-towers the crag,
We plant the staff for our country's flag,
We plant the shade, from the hot sun free;
We plant all these when we plant the tree.

Mrs. A. V. Cotton is the sole proprietor of Mll Arboles Gardens.

Ballad of the Pine Cone

By Herbert Heron

The growing pine-cone hangs upon the tree,
  Protected by the needles like a screen;
Clear indication of the cone to be:
  Now young and full of sap, a tender green--
  The springtime softness of the nectarine--
So rich in promise, though but new and small,
  Among the elder boughs the sea-winds glean,
And every little while the pine-cones fall.

The changing pine-cone, now a harmony
  Of emerald and russet brown, is seen:
By Nature's wonderful and firm decree
  Turning throug sunlight to a finer sheen
  (As a young princess turns into a queen).
The sea-wind rises, and a sudden squall
  Comes on the larger boughs that swing serene,
And every little while the pine-cones fall.

The ripened pine-cone sways above the lea--
  Ripe nut that tinkles like a tambourine:
As fine a cone as one would wish to see.
  Firm in the growth of seasons strong and clean--
  Holding its fruit till winds shall intervene;
Its color now a perfect brown, where tall
  Bright summer suns have softly kissing been . . .
And every little while the pine-cones fall.

The Carmel Pine Cone bursts upon the scene,
  With youth and sap, with color, fruit and all;
Our local press, our weekly magazine . . .
  And every little while the Pine Cones fall.

Steiner's 35mm work on exhibit

The Friends of Photography present an exhibit of photography by E. Florian Steiner that will be on exhibit through Mar. 15 at the Carmel Photography Center, San Carlos at 9th, Carmel.

E. Florian Steiner is a 35 mm specialist, extremely iconoclastic, somewhat indifferent to technique, and impressively productive.

He insists on using outdated film and paper which he is successful in obtaining from Agfa at little or no charge.

This exhibit is a sample of his Bogota show which, as far as Steiner is concerned, represents photography which is already historical instead of current. Steiner has submitted the following hiku as the shortest autobiography he could write. "There are no ceilings for those who look at the moon incorrigibly."

Presently he is living in Asolo, near Venice, Italy, resting from his several careers that have taken him through the world working at practically every kind of job that could be mentioned.

He studied cooking at Cordon Bleu and has been a interpreter in 11 languages at the Brazilian Pavilion at the Brussels Worlds Fair in 1958. He did still photography with the crew that filmed Black Orpheus in Rio de Janeiro, has studied cartooning, bummed his way through South America for a year, and in his travels through the United States of America he has photographed at Big Sur and Los Angeles.

His varied experiences have included living in Japan where he taught himself Japanese and earned a living by teaching English. He experienced satori and found himself confined to an insane asylum where he wrote a long trilogy about Japan.

He lists the most important influences in his life as Tarzan and Henry Miller. In his middle 30's, E. Florian Steiner is just getting started.

In addition to the E. Florian Steiner exhiqit, the Friends of Photography are presenting Part 2 of a group of selected photographs submitted by members of the Friends of Photography.

The exhibit will also be on view through Mar. 15.

The membership show includes approximately 60 selected photographs of extreme diversity, style and technique. There is a commonalty of excellence.

The submissions from members have come from all over the United States and provide an extremely strong statement of the diversity photography offers to a creative person in his attempt to communicate ideas, moods, and expressions through this medium.

The gallery hours are 1:00 to 5:00 p.m., daily except Mondays. The public is cordially invited to attend the opening preview tonight from 8 to 10:30 p.m.

Gilbert Reese

Gilbert Reese to present cello concert at MPC on Friday

Beethoven, Schumann, Debussy, Lowndes Maury and Joaquin Nin.

Tickets, at $1 for adults and 75 cents for students, are available at the college community services office afternoons and may be purchased at the door on a "space available" basis.

Schooled by such masters as Alexander Borisoff, Diran Alexanian, Andre Levy and Pablo Casals, Reese is known for his impeccable technique and his profound understanding of the great music masters.

He began his study of the 'cello at the early age of five. His West Coast debut at the age of 16 brought forth such critques as "Technical problems seem non-existent. Tone is resonant, warm compelling;" and his Town Hall debut resulted in his being hailed as "one of the discoveries of the season."

Gilbert Reese, acclaimed in both Europe and America as one of the greatest present-day 'cellists, will appear in recital with pianist Ralph Linsley Friday, Feb. 6, at Monterey Peninsula College.

The program, starting at 8:30 p.m. in the MPC music hall, will feature works by

Ostergard new chairman of Monterey Scout Council

Don Ostergard, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., is the new chairman of the Monterey district council of the Boy Scouts of America.

He succeeds Roger Poyner who remains on the council as finance chairman.

The change of command ceremony was conducted by RAdm Robert McNitt, commandant of the Naval Postgraduate School.

Reports given by chairmen of council committees showed that Scouting has made tremendous strides during the past year in the Peninsula district which includes Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Del Rey Oaks, Seaside, Fort Ord, and Marina.

During the year there were more than 2800 boys enrolled in 75 Scout units. Goal for 1970 is 77 units.

Plans for Boy Scout Wekk, Feb. 7 to 13, were discussed. Many units in the area are preparing window displays which will be placed in downtown stores.

New posts that recently have been formed in the Peninsula District includes police units for Seaside youth, sponsored by the Seaside Police Department and the Monterey County Sheriff's office.

A survey will be undertaken in February in high schools in the district to determine special interest of students and the organization of special Explorer posts to provide such programs. Young ladies also are eligible for Explorer membership.

The annual district Recognition Dinner, when awards are presented to adults who have made outstanding contributions in local Scouting, will be Monday, Mar. 16 at 7 p.m. in Stilwell Hall, Fort Ord. More than 500 Scouts and adult leaders are expected.

MPC, Friends present 2nd annual Easter photography workshop with Ansel Adams

Monterey Peninsula College, in association with Friends of Photography, will operate the second annual Easter vacation week printing workshop at Monterey Peninsula College.

The workshop will cover five days, March 24-28.

The fee is $100, with members of Friends of Photography and photography students granted a 10% reduction.

In order to insure that a place in the workshop will be open, applicants should pre-register on a first come, first served basis. There will be a non-returnable registration fee of $10 which will count as part of the total tuition and will isnure a place for the applicant in the workshop.

The staff for the workshop is established as follows: Ansel Adams, Richard Garrod, Liliane De Cook, Henry Gilpin, and Imogen Cunningham.

Each student will have the opportunity to spend a full day with each of the five instructors.

The fee for the workshop includes the basic chemicals and printing papers; but the student will be expected to supply his own camera equipment as well as negative materials.

The workshop will, as before, emphasize darkroom printing techniques, but will also include field work under the supervision of the instructors, so that a complete cycle of exposure and printing can be completed by the student.

The workshop hours will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and there will be several evening sessions in addition to this.

Communications should be directed to Stephen A. James, Acting Dean, Technical-Vocational Education, Monterey Peninsula College, Monterey, California 93940, with the deposits made payable to Community Services.

Carmel Museum to exhibit work from two collectors

Much attention has been placed of late on the value of collecting work of art. This is not a new notion; there have long been, in this country, collectors, both major and minor. The greatest museums in the United States have primarily been initiated by gifts and bequests of important collectors: the Whitney Museum, the Museum of Modren Art in New York, the Walker Art Gallery, the list could go on indefinitely.

Some collectors, like Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Kress, have seen fit to donate portions of their collections to different institutions, enhancing and enriching those museums in special areas or period of art history.

The Carmel Museum of Art is delighted to exhibit works from two collectors during the months of February and March.

The collection of an anonymous loaner, expresses interest in a single painter, and is represented by 15 paintings and lithographs of the noted Russion emigre, Nicolai Fechin, whose landscapes of the Southwest and portraits of ethnic types are much sought after.

The collection of Anthony R. Whites (Mr. White is Chairman of the Museum Board), on the other hand, represents keen interest in California and expecially the Monterey Peninsula's artistic heritage.

The White's collection concerns itself with works done mainly after the turn of the century and up into the 1930s, by Peninsula artists.

Both collectors show discernment in the quality of their collections, per se, and both evince the joy of the collector, in not only adding something of beauty to his own surroundings, but making it available to the public at large so that they too may delight in and appreciate it.

The Carmel Museum of Art is located on Dolores, near Seventh in Carmel and is open to the public free of charge.

A DOG'S BEST FRIEND – They say that man is a dog's best friend. I for one agree completely. Men are loyal, trustworthy and sincere. They feed you on time, too. And if they have children, so much the better. Now what I'd like is a nice master, preferably with children. I'd do for him all the things a man would like such as fetch his slippers, bring him his paper and play with the children. Perhaps the ideal person will stop by the SPCA Shelter of the Salinas-Monterey Highway opposite the Laguna Seca racetrack to get acquainted. I'd like a friend. How about you? The number to call is 373-2631.

Betty Hoag to teach history of California art at MPC

Mrs. Betty Lochrie Hoag, recently appointed director of the Triton Museum in Santa Clara, California, and former director of research at the Carmel Museum of Art, will be teaching a course in the history of California at the Monterey Peninsula College, during the spring semester.

Mrs. Hoag, who holds a master's degree from the University of Southern California, has long been known to California art researchers. She worked with the Archives of American Art as Southern California Researcher, on the Federal Arts Project of the 1930s.

Her thesis at the University of Southern California was on Jules Tavernier, the man who founded the art colony in Monterey in 1875, and on the nature of that colony. The study itself is currently being considered for publication by the Smithsonian Institution.

Mrs. Hoag's work with the Carmel Museum of Art included research, taped interviews with artists, and monographs on the Peninsula colony and its growth.

Those interested in the course should contact the Monterey Peninsula College (375-9821)

Town House slides

Hand-colored stereoptican slides of Harasupai Indians will be shown and discussed by Fremont Ballou at the Carmel Foundation Town House, Wednesday, Feb. 11 at 2:30 p.m.

Tea will be served following the program which is open to visitors and Town House members.

Scandinavian travel offers warm people-to-people fun

Norway's sunny South Coast is now included – for the first time – in a new package tour, which is tailor-made for American visitors.

It is the "Discovery Tour," which will start every Tuesday from Stavanger and every Saturday from Oslo during the period May 30 to September 1.

When starting in Stavanger, the tour is easily combined with the hydrofoil service ("more airborne than seaborn") in 3-4 hours from Bergen, which is the new gateway from USA and Canada, not only to Norway, but indeed to all of Scandinavia, by SAS flights from New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Anchorage and Montreal. In Stafanger, the program includes a fjord excursion into Norway's Fjord Country by the modern "Fjord Clipper."

Traveling southward from Stavanger by motor coach, the itinerary includes delightful scenery of seaside towns and villages, beautiful mountains and valleys, glistening sandy beaches, a visit in Skien where Henrik Ibsen was born, and a drive up the famous 'Spirit Road' in Drammen.

Overnight stays en route are in Kristiansand on the sunny South Coast and in Sandefjord on the Oslo fjord.

The 7-day de luxe Discovery Tour includes top-grade hotel accommodation from Stavanger to Oslo and vice versa at an inclusive cost of $240. The tour is operated by Norsk Folke Ferie Travel Bureau of Oslo, but bookins are accepted by all travel agents in USA and Canada. Illustrated tour programs are available from Scandinavian National Travel Office, 505 Fifth Ave., New York 10017 or 612 S Flower St., Los Angeles, 90017, or your local travel agent.

"Scandinavia is At Home waiting to welcome the off-season visitor," reports Per Prag, chairman of the Scandinavian National Travel Offices.

"From now through the end of April, Scandinavia is especially delightful to visitors, for the opportunity to visit with the Danes, Finns, Norwegians and Swedes right in their homes."

To supplement the Scandinavia At Home program, the American Automobile Association is offering two-week escorted tours through April 30, which have as a prime feature the chance to visit with Scandinavian families. "By closer relationships, friendships have been formed and visitors come away with a greater sense of knowledge and regard for their host country," Prag states.

In addition, tour guides ensure that visitors view the top scenic attractions of Bergen, Oslo, Stockholm, and Copenhagen, with plenty of optional activities. Attractions include fjordside dining and train travel, Oslo's art centers, quaint shops in Stockholm's Old Town, a performance at the Swedish Royal Opera, and Copenhagen's breweries, interesting cafes and handicrafts.

Total cost includes economy air fare on a group basis of 15 persons or more originating in New York City. Further informagion: Scandinavian National Travel Offices, 505 Fifth Avenue, New York City; or 612 South Flower Street, Los Angeles, or your AAA or local travel agent.

New aircraft noise level standards to be set soon

Proposed standards for acceptable noise levels for aircraft and airports in California will be drafted within a few months following the recent award of a $24,000 contract to an El Segundo consulting firm by the State Department of Aeronautics.

Aeronautics Director Joseph R. Crotti announced that the contract was awarded by Wyle Laboratories with five other firms also submitting proposals.

Crotti stated that the consulting firm will submit proposed noise standards to a seven-member Airport Noise Advisory Committee appointed late last year by Governor Ronald Reagan.

The noise standards set by the Department of Aeronautics will go into effect on January 1, 1971.

After that date, violations of the noise standards will become misdemeanors carrying a $1,000 fine levied against the aircraft operator.

"The standards developed by the consultant and the Advisory Committee should help to bring relief to person who live near airports," Crotti said. "They should also provide an incentive to airlines and aircraft manufacturers to work for the development of quieter aircraft, and will alert airport management to consider the effect of noisy airport operations when building new facilities or expanding existing airports."

Army seeks nurses

Due to the critical shortage of professional nurses and the increasing workload at the Ft. Ord Army Hospital, 10 civilian nurses will be hired, according to Major Frank P. O'Donnell, chief of hospital personnel.

The nurses hired will be rated as GS-7's. Their beginning pay will be $7,639 a year or higher.

Anyone having a current registration as a professional nurse in any state, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or a territory of the United States may apply.

"We want to get the word out and make sure people who might be interested are aware of the openings because we critically need the personnel," Major O'Donnell said.

Applicants should make inquiries to Mrs. Ward at Ft. Ord Civilian Personnel Office, building 2852.

WATER OUZEL

Ouzel, you sing
To booming falls.
I chant
To urban roar.
You dive,
Wings pressing down,
To floor of mountain stream.
I plunge
Into screech and drone,
Plumbing the swirling fumes.

You walk with skin-veiled eyes,
Seeking morsels
In rocks and sand.
I walk with dream-veiled eyes,
Exploring
My quiet mind.

SAN CARLOS MISSION

Here we meditate in sun,
Where swallows weave an arabesque;
They flow like wavelets, one by one,
Fluttering to the belfry dome,
Calling, talking, each to each –
Into the mud-built nests of home.
They do not count the years that toll
From mission-bell that round them swings,
The cross, red tiles, the tiny shrine
Where the Madonna's carved in wood.

It is for us to find the past,
To praise the Lord for all the good
Wrought in the years before we came
To worship here in age-old courts,
Where Padres prayed among the flame
Of flowers, and worked for god,
Teaching the Indians His ways,
And how to till the good rich sod.

I WISH I WERE A STAR

I wish I were a star,
Way up there so very far.
I would dart from one place to another,
With my sister and my brother.
I would shine the whole night through,
Then I'd turn out my lights,
The other stars would too.
Then Mr. Sun would shine on through,
In that great big sky so blue.
Then after all that sun,
On would come my nightly fun.

TRULY LONELY

I've spent many days all by myself
On the top of a far-away hill;
I've wandered alone in the valley
In solitude stark and still;
But since the day that I was born
I've ne'er been so lonely, so forlorn,
As when going down a crowded street
Jostled by people whom I never meet.

WHAT A PITY, THE CITY

Once calm, peaceful, wide-open spaces;
Now blustering, crowded market-places:
Oh my, what a pity,
Man e'er built the city.

Once clear fresh air from fragrant fields;
Now smog and stench that progress yields;
Once babbling brook and singing bird;
Now brazen, grating clangor heard:
Oh my, what a pity,
Man e'er built the city.

Once grass and trees, such pleasant spots:
Now buildings, sidewalks and parking lots;
Once shady lanes with friendly meets;
Now lonely strangers crowd barren streets;
Oh my, what a pity,
Man e'er built the city.

Once moon and stars hallowed the nights,
Now desecrated by garish lights.
Oh my, what a pity, a great, great pity,
That man ever built the city.

Russell Offutt

Letters to the editor

Letter to the Editor

Rightly or wrongly, my observations seem to tell me that American has latterly reached an inner-questing mood of unprecedented universality and concern.

Six weeks ago we were confronted with the soul-searching question as of the degree of guilt attaching to all of the American people in the then alleged slayings of civilians in Vietnam by elements of oru Armed Forces and of the punishable guilt of the alleged perpatrators of the reported act.

At the time I was quite elated at the Pine Cone's privilege of reporting the attitude of understanding and friendly restraint voiced by the Canadian publication, the Vancouver Province, as perspective from without.

The Province extolled us for our obvious consternation and humiliation, a mark of a still virtuous and honorable people in their eyes.

This in contrast to a vehement and widespread pla around the Country for the scalp of the allged perpetrator, Lt. Calley.

My reaction, as expressed in the Pine Cone was that perhaps the greatest danger in the episode would be that of a national diminishing of our unique American principle of holding innocent the accused until proved guilty.

Thus, the viewpoint of detachment from our own internalism, as voiced in editorials from without, may be of inestimable help for us in evaluating our status in whole and so enriching our own perspective.

I could therefore, fervently wish that such balanced appraisal of the American scene as that of the British Columbia's Province's Editorial, "Return to Fortress America" of Jan. 19th could be repeated in whole by all responsible American papers having a recognizably thoughtful contingent in their circulations. In lieu thereof I would, if I might, sketch some of its thought having perspective value for us, in shaping our own.

The Province sees the world entering the 1970s with apprehension that the internal and external traumas suffered by the U.S.A. in the 1960s may cause it to shrink in its self-appointed tasks of world assistance, in which it lists: The Vietnam war, Negro integration, war against poverty, city strife, pollution.

"These are the externals" says Province, "How they have eroded the American spirit is something else."

Continuing; "The Manchester Guardian offers one interpretation by reminding us of the outlook exemplified by President Kennedy's inaugural speech of nine years ago this month. It set the tone of the times.

'Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe, in order to assure the survival and success of liberty. Ask not what your country can do for you. Ask what you can do for your country.'

"How would this appeal be received today? The Guardian suggests that it would be likely to produce wry smiles, sneers, or the burning of draft cards. The response would be most vehemently hostile in the constituency to which Kennedy appealed most – the liberals, the intellectuals, many labor unionists, the Negroes, and, above all, the young."

"Nine years later Kennedy's stirring appeal is merely an echo of America as it was, a country that did not doubt itself, that did not apologize for defining its role in world affairs, that openly challenged uncommitted countries to choose between communism and the west, between what Kennedy interpreted simply as tyranny and liberty."

It would seem to this writer that the response of every concerned American of today is that of asking himself in all humility and sincerity is, whether Kennedy was right nine years ago, and if so, "what have I, (personally) done in the mean time to strengthen and uphold the tenets of his faith in my country?"

I would venture that ultimate history will record John Kennedy right. Your or my failure to recognize his philosophy, wrong.

The price of being historically wrong, is incalculable. I shrink from its contemplation.

Letter to the Editor:

Thanks to a Carmel Valley friend, I have just received the January 15 edition of your paper which is full of news about the Carmel Museum of Art.

I produced their first catalog-calendar when it opened two years ago, and fell in love with the whole lovely Carmel area during the months I was out there working on it. I was therefore interested but not at all surprised to read that the City is considering the idea of taking over the operation of the Museum.

Carmel is one of those rare communities with a sense of the value of its great heritage, both historical and cultural. One has only to list the activities of the Art Association, the many contemporary, artist-owned galleries, the theaters and concerts available in Carmel today to realize how strong and lively its artistic tradition remains.

I'd like to compliment the City Council, and presumably the residents of Carmel when they get the chance to vote on it, for wanting to add the Museum to the community's many fine assets.

Jan. 17th 1970

Dear Sgt. &
Mrs. Gilmour:

I received your Christmas card and generous check last Jan. 10th 1970. It was very thankful of you to remember me and children too, and I really do appreciate it. It was a great consolation for me because we had been suffering from financial difficulties at the orphanage. I will use the money you sent for children school things. When I think that it is due solely to your help that our children are able to continue their schooling, my heart is filled with gratitude. I believe one way in which they could at least partly return your kindness would be to become worhty people in the future. I hope and pray that with your help they will.

This time last year our children were looking forward to the Christmas day and the New Year with the hope of receiving gifts. Although our assistance from America stopped, I was determined to continue working for our children. The letters we received from many for the kind people who had helped us really aided me to keep my spirits up during our difficult times.

I can't find words to express my gratitude for your continuous help. I am going to close here. I will pray for God's blessing for you for a good luck 1970. I know you will continue to remember our children.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Choi Ki Suk

Joint meeting of City Council, Planning and Cultural Commissions ponder future of Sunset for library, post office

by GUNNAR NORBERG

It's been nearly six years since Carmel voters by an overwhelming majority – decided to buy what is called the Sunset Center property for use as a municipal community and cultural center.

Many who voted for the bond issue which made the purchase possible, thought they were voting for three uses – municipal use, community use, and cultural use – but city fathers through the years have shown mixed feelings about the matter, and now there is a sign on the site which calls it a "cultural center."

Once the City Council voted unanimously to move city hall to Sunset, but a little later it reversed itself, though not unanimously. The City's Master Plan indicates the north playground at Sunset should continue in playground use, but nowadays parking use is sometimes allowed to push out playground use.

And now and then, efforts have been made to eliminate playground use there altogether.

Meanwhile the City's Cultural Commission (which sometimes seems an uneasy amalgam of two earlier groups – the Arts Commission and the Sunset Commission – out of which it was formed has understandably tried to emphasize only one use, the cultural one, though what the term actually means has been construed in a variety of ways, some seemingly little related to what Carmel originally would have considered its traditional cultural concepts to have been.

Now –last Monday evening, to be precise – members of the Cultural Commission and the Planning Commission met at City Hall to try to make a new start on master planning for Sunset. Also present at the meeting were two city councilmen – Mayor Barney Laiolo and Councilman Herbert Blanks (who is a former mayor.)

Acting as moderator at the meeting was the Cultural Commission's Dr. James Gilman. Other Cultural Commissioners preseng were Mrs. Dorothy Green Chapman, James Pruitt, and Robert Evans.

Planning Commissioners in attendance were Charles McEwen, Edward Neroda, Dorothy von Meier, Fred Keeble, Ted Fehring, and Olof Dahlstrand.

Staff members present were City Administrator Hugh Bayless, Planning Director John Riling, Sunset Center Manager Dorothy Bowman and City Attorney William Burleigh.

The purpose of the meeting was to consider a plan for Sunset Center development which had been purchased a year ago by Planning Commissioner James Pruitt, and which has been an item on the City Council's abeyance calendar since that time.

Incorporated in the Pruitt plan are many of the points which had been made in a Sunset Center report prepared by City Planning Director John Riling, as well as some additions to, and modifications of, those points.

Essentially the Pruitt plan provides not only for cultural uses, but also for certain municipal and community uses. For example, space for city offices in the large gymnasium area were marked out on the Pruitt diagram for Sunset, and room for a city historical museum was suggested for the northwest corner of the main Sunset structure.

Also the former school cafeteria, downstairs at Sunset was listed as "a community meeting room." The plan also proposed consolidating all office activities of various cultural groups using Sunset, into a single room at the south end of the main building. An area at the extreme south end of the Sunset site – now used for Carmel Adult School activigies – was labeled for city library use.

While a diagram of the Pruitt plan was shown to the assemblage, there was little discussion of the details incorporated in it. Instead it became the springboard for a more generalized review of past Sunset activities and whether or not those, or other activities, should be established or encouraged there.

Uppermost in many minds appeared to be the question of accommodating the U.S. Post Office at Sunset – that is, if the post office people in Washington, should finally decide that they would like to go there.

Mayor Laiolo, at one point, asked just how members of the Cultural Commission would feel about having the post office at Sunset.

Asked, in turn, the four Cultural Commissioners present, stood 3-t0-1 in favor of such a move "if it should be properly controlled."

Reference was made to the idea of employing an outside architect or planner to draw up a master plan for Sunset. Planning Commissioner Keeble said he did not think the City was ready to do that because he felt no outside consultant could prepare a master plan before the philosophical basis for such a plan had been decided upon.

Also, he said, the economic feasibility of philosophical objectives should be weighed and measured carefully, before embarking on a costly consultant course. Planning Commissioner Dahlstrand – like Keeble, an architect – also felt things "should be thought out philosophically" before any further steps were taken.

When reference was made to the proposed move of the city library from its present Ocean Avenue location to the south end of Sunset Center, Dahlstrand mentioned that then the alternative to moving city hall to Sunset, might become whether or not to move it to the then vacated Ocean Avenue library site. Dahlstrand added, as have others, that he would not want to see anything happen to the present Harrision Memorial Library building which he considers the distinguished work of the famed California architect, Bernard Maybeck. With regard to the Sunset Center site itself, Dahlstrand said he felt "more garden areas" should be established there.

Concern was expressed about the fact that too often the renters of rooms at Sunet Center are absent, thus giving the impression that no artistic or creative work is going on there. Planning Commission Chairman Charles McEwen, along with Mayor Laiolo, felt the renting out of rooms at a low 10-cents-per-square-foot-per-month basis only increased the costs to the city because of added maintenance expenses at Sunset. Therefore, if no important public purpose would be served by such rental, rental rates should be substantially increased.

The view that all basic master-plan thinking for Sunset should first consider what good a particular kind of proposal would do for the people of Carmel and then how suitably it might fit into the pattern of Carmel traditions, won the unequivocal approval of Councilman Blanks, while Planning Commissioner Fehring wondered why "we should only focus on culture at Sunset" in view of the wording of the bond issue which bought the property, especially in view of the fact that "the post office is a needed community use."

Concern was expressed about the fact that the Sunset auditorium is so little used, but no reference was made to the often-proposed idea that the City make periodic awards for original plays and then produce them, either at Sunset or at the City's outdoor Forest Theater.

Such awards and such productions of new plays could be far less costly to the City than the accumulation of added expense due to the low rental policy.

The result of the joint meeting seemed to be that much thought still needs to be devoted to framing Sunset objectives before the basic drawing of fundamental principles of a master plan for Sunset, can be attempted.

Meanwhile, as Councilman Blanks pointed out, the Cultural Commission has the initial task of gestating guidelines for future Sunset planning. Audience concensus seemed to suggest that the long discussion would help the Cultural Comission in trying to separate chaff from wheat in developing Sunset policy.

Following the long joint session, the Cultural Commission held its own separate meeting. The main topic on its agenda, was a question as to whether or not the Commission should engage the theater consultant firm of Paul Landry Associates of Palo Alto to report on the adequacy or inadequacy of stage facilities at Sunset auditorium. The Commission decided to employ the firm for a one-day investigation.

Income tax book now available

"Your Federal Income Tax," a 160-page booklet on Federal taxes, written in layman's language, is now available at most offices of the Internal Revenue Service.

The booklet covers in detail the Federal income tax laws as they apply to individuals. It contains many examples to illustrate how the laws apply to actual situations.

The booklet also includes examples of taxable and non-taxable income and of allowable and non-allowable deductions. A detailed index helps pinpoint answers to tax questions.

A special feature in the booklet is the sample, filled-in tax return, Form 1040, keyed to pages in the booklet where explanations can be found for the entries on the return.

The booklet may also be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, at 60 cents a copy or at the Social Security Office in Monterey.

city candidates or officials, is exempt from the assets declaration, as are bank deposits and savings-and-loan deposits, according to an interpretation by Richard Carpenter, executive director of the League of California Cities, but almost anything else – if its worth separately exceeds $10,000 – seems to be included.

The State Legislature – whose members are included in the application of the new assets law – expressed a somewhat different view of its intent in passing the law, than local officials here seem to see in it. The Legislature said, in part, in the law: ". . . The representative form of government is founded upon a belief that those entrusted with the offices of government have nothing to fear from full public disclosure of their financial and business holdings, provided those officials deal honestly and fairly with the people. . ."

So far the new legislation has not had a court test, but it may be heading for such a test if the City of Carmel initiates and pursues the course upon which city fathers started to embark it at last Friday's special meeting.

15 min. or until eggs are well set. Then top with shredded Monterey Jack cheese and put under broiler until melted and crusty.

Or you can break the eggs directly into a frying pan and scramble to the preferred state, mixing the sauce into the eggs. Pour out onto a tortilla that has been lightly fried separately in hot oil in another pan.

For the fried egg version, fry the eggs separately from the sauce. Set them onto the warm tortillas and pour the "ranchero" sauce while very hot, over the eggs.

Huevos Rancheros can of course, be accompanied by crisply fried ham slices, bacon or little sausages. Cornmeal nuggets, strong hot coffee or chocolate, and ole!

Letters to the editor

A letter to the Editor:

I have taken the liberty to quote from the words of that Great American General Douglas McArthur and to add some not so eloquent or inspiring of my own.

"And what sort of soldiers are American soldiers? Are they brave? Their story is known to all of you! It is the story of the American man at arms, My estimate of him was formed many many years ago and it has never changed. I regard him then and I regard him now as one of the noblest figures. His name and fame are the birthright of every American.

"In his love of country and strength and fame, his youth and his loyality he has give all that mortality can bear and give. He needs no eulogy from me or from anyone or from any man. He has written his history in blood and sweat and tears. And for those who died I do not know the dignity of their birth, black or white, but I do know the glory of their death. They had only one goal – Duty, Honor, Country."

And now the Army of these men has been stained by an alleged massacre at a place in Vietnam. This I cannot believe.

I have served in four wars and I know the support that the American soldier has always given to the people and to their children.

Let not Americans or the world challenge their dignity or their thoughts. The American soldier has proven himself throughout the world as a chosen person of God by his duty, his loyalty and his compassion.

Dear Editor:

Notice all property owners – attention, please!

A move is on foot, statewide, to elminate the 2/3 majority of voters required to approve school bond issues. Since school bond issues are needed to keep pace with increasing enrollment, this becomes of great and sudden interest to property owners. If the bonds should be defaulted, the bill would have to be paid by the property owners themselves!

. . . write to your Assemblyman quickly and tell him what you think about this scheme.

Sincerely,

Sir:

It must be distressing for a scientist to discover or invent something of great benefit to mankind, only to learn that its side effects may more than nullify its usefulness.

Recently it was discovered by Dr. Wm. O'Malley of Georgetown University that the experimental drug, L-dopa, which shows much promise in the treatment of Parkinson's disease, has sex-stimulation side effects.

With sex crimes increasing at an alarming rate, we now learn that this new drug can give men in their 60s and 70s more sexual vigor than possessed by average 20 year olds.

We can just imagine the result when the 20 year olds give up LSD and marijuana in favor of L-dopa. And any faint hopes we may have had about controlling our population, well, the stuff works almost as well on women as on men.

Medical research must never be inhibited, but eventually we may have to pass laws against letting the word get out about products like L-dopa. Try to picture the confusion if L-dopa use becomes widespread, and thousands of government anti-L-dopa agents start using it and refuse to enforce the law.

It was unbelievable to read of the bigotry as regards the stand of the Mormon Church with regard to our black brothers.

Consumer Power

By Yvonne Earnst

Offering a refund of all or part of the purchase price – or a merchandise gift – for merely sending in labels and boxtops is a favorite advertising method of many companies known to us by these brand names – Libby's, Green Giant, Birdseye, Pillsbury, General Mills, Sara LEe, Pepperidge Farm, Campbell's, Chicken o' the Sea, Lipton's, Stouffer's, Del Monte, Swanson's, Kraft, Jell-O, Lawry's, French's, Stokely, Borden, Lever Brothers, Proctor & Gamble, Colgate-Palmolive, and many others.

Every grocery store has from 50 to 200 refundable items on the shelves. The higher the ratio of "Brand name" to "private brand" products in the store, the better refunding territory it is.

Most refund offers are intended to attract new customers, but others seem to me to be the advertiser's way of saying, "Thanks for continuing to buy our brand." Competition is intense for space on grocers' shelves. Your goodwill is all-important to advertisers. Without consumers where would they be?

By becoming a "refunder", you can obtain a legal rebate on part of your grocery expenditure. Any consumer, with a minimum of effort, can bring in $5 a month. With my family of five, I can easily brin in $15 a month. With a bit of brand-switching and label-swapping with friends, I have had the postman bring me as much as $25 a month, for several months in a row.

By the way, my postman's teen-aged daughter is now doing the "refunding" for their family. He was quite impressed by the stream of mail to my house.

If you are not firmly convinced that one particular brand of detergent holds the upper hand, then you might not mind switching brands, according to what is currently "refundable," as I do.

My clothes are just as "sparkling" white as when I faithfully used one top brand exclusively.

It is impossible to find out about all these refund offers just by looking for the forms in stores, but there are over 50 publications printed in the U.S. which inform consumers of all the refund offers that are currently open. And it is impossible to "refund" without at least one of these publications.

Listed below are three monthly refund publications, which are, in my opinion, the best in the field at present.

This is a personal recommendation, not an endorsement by this newspaper.

After studying the wide field of publications, and comparing them over a period of time, I chose these three over many others.

The natural reaction, when learning that this world of refunding exists is usually one of enthusiasm, but don't let it run away with you. Don't send for all the other publications you will se advertised. There is no reason for you to go to the same expense, time and money-wise, just to arrive at the same proable results.

QuickSilver, Dept. 203, Milford, N.Y. 13806 – a mimeographed bulletin sent out the first of the month – oldest and most reliable of all – screens out companies with poor pay records – tests many offers – $3.50 a year. Companion publication, How to Turn Boxtops into Dollars unnecessary for readers of this column. Companion publication, Contest Bulletin, reports rules of sweepstakes and contests monthly for only $2 a year (price going up soon). We will be covering the subject of sweepstakes and contests in this column later this year.

Refund Reports, Dept. E, R.D. No. 1, Renlee Ave., Ellwood City, Pa. 16117 – a neatly alphabetized printed bulletin – large, clear print – sent out first of month – runs form-swapping service for subscribers – $3.25 a year. Publications, Fun and Profit, No Expiration Date, and Golden Book of Refunding unnecessary for readers of this column. However, you might wish to order Golden Book of Refunding, Box 2620, Hannibal, Ohio 43931 ($2) for someone in another city who will not be reading this column. It will give much of the same information.

FireFly Reporter, Dept. MC, 116 W 4th St., Redwood Falls, Minn. 56283 – sent out middle of month – newspaper tabloid form – small print – half refund offers and half ads to buy, sell, trade forms, coupons, trading stamps, labels, etc. – form-swapping service for subscribers – $4 a year. Companion publications, Friendly Way, Busy Bee Circular and Dillies for a Dollar are not recommended.

The last publication I am going to mention is not of the subscription type. I recommend it because it fills the need of newcomers to refunding to learn about the huge backlog of refund offers that have been announced in the past that are still running. Where one of the first publications I mentioned should be purchased on a subscription basis, the purchase of Money Tree should be a one-time thing. At the very most, you should not send for one more than twice a year, as the information is repetitive, revised only slightly every month.

Money Tree, Box 232RE, Manchester, Mo. 63011 – usually lists about 600 offers (not all available here) – send for offers near front of each section as they are the oldest offers – price is $1 by third class mail, $1.18 by first class – revised edition printed middle of every month. Publications, SilverGrams and JayBees, which advertise in Money Tree are not recommended.

Entering the refunding circle requires an investment of a few dollars to start with, but you will repay your checking account very quickly when the refunds come rolling into your mailbox.

Tight money pinch may be over

With the economy now "clearly responding" to the pinch of tight money, less stringent monetary controls and lower interest rates are just around the corner, in the opinion of Dean Witter & Co.

In the current winter issue of its trademarked report, "A Positive Investment Policy," the investment firm appraises the investment climate and economic outlook and says that reduction in the rate of price inflation "may be anticipated by year-end."

The report cautions, however, that the change in monetary policy and the decline in interest rates are likely to be modest.

Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

A longer, second look at the Viejo Monterey booklet, which appeared as the official publication of the Bicentennial, leads me to emulate the turtle and stick out my neck a little, never knowing what progress I shall make and never caring.

It seems to me that it is so badly done as to be embarrassing, and a poor thing to be used to commemorate the Monterey Bicentennial. The writing is amateurish, filled with cliches and trite phraseology. Surely there are professional writers in this area who would have been happy to do this work without charge for the joy of doing something for Monterey.

The reproduction of the photographs seems of questionable quality. It must be difficult to reproduce old photographs, but printing them on a better quality paper, one with more surface, would have given gradations of light and dark, and thus a more satisfactory effect.

And finally, the book seems almost too restricted in its range of view. Even in speaking of the move of Mission from Monterey to Carmel, the book merely states that it was moved "to a location five miles south of Monterey." Would it have been too painful to mention that this is now Carmel?

And so to books . . . the first ones being a group of four new ones for the home fixer-upper. One is called Concrete and Masonry, the second is Practical Handbook of TV Repairs, the third is Printing and Wallpapering, and the last is Electrical Repairs.

All four books look very practical, and are well illustrated with both diagrams and photographs But look out for that fourth one, because careless repairing of electrical doo-dads can kill you!

Harrison Library sets Keeble and Rhoda as architects for new building at Sunset

The necessity for the Harrison Memorial Library to expand came to full realization last week and the Library Board of Trustees appointed the architectural firm of Keeble and Rhoda to design a new building to be constructed on the grounds of the Sunset Cultural Center.

Peter R. Dyer, Library Board Chairman, emphasized that the selection of one architectural firm out of the many highly qualified firms on the Monterey Peninsula was a most difficult task. "But in Fred Keeble," he said, " the interests of Carmel will be exceptionally well served through his long association with this unique community and his understanding of its spirit and desires."

"It is regrettable but undeniable that the library must expand," he stated, "in order to keep up with the demands of the community. Unfortunatley, the present main library building cannot be expanded through remodelling without destroying its charm, beauty and character."

Dyer went on to explain that library usage continues to increase, and 100 per cent utilization of the existing shelf space was reached many months ago. "For each new book added to teh collection, another must be either discarded outright or relegated to inactive storage in facilities which have been rented at Sunset Center for the past several years. Statistics on library usage throughout the state of California reveal that the citizens of Carmel, with a population of approxemately 5,000, have created library circulation figures typical of a city several times the size of Carmel."

Rhoda and Keeble, the architects, will draw the preliminary plans and elevations and construct a model for study by the Library Board and the citizens at large. "This will be a comprehensive designing challenge," Dyer said, "to be solved within the context of a functional building, aesthetically pleasing and compatible with the life-style of Carmel."

Door rattler fees

City Administrator Hugh Bayless has announced that 1970 notices for door-shake fees are being sent to those businesses which have signed up for the services.

Other businesses wishing to have city policemen check at night to see if the doors of their stores are locked may apply at city hall for such service.

The cost per month for "shaking up to three doors per night" is $1, with an extra 10 cents charged for each extra door, beyond three, which is to be shaken.

Castrol, SCRAMP renew Can-Am

Highly satisfied with their initial relationship, the Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula and Castrol Oils, Inc. today announced Castrol sponsorship of the 1970 Canadian-American Challenge Cup series race at renowned Laguna Seca Raceway.

In making the announcement, SCRAMP President Don Wester and Castrol President Martin Donahue said the Oct. 16-18 racing spectacular would again be called the Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix.

Castrol and SCRAMP first worked together last October when the Laguna Seca Cam-Am drew the largest crowd in the circuit's 12-year history, 42,500 plus.

Record attendance was due in no small part to promotional activities on the part of Castrol.

"Renewing the Castrol arrangement reflects SCRAMP's conviction that race sponsors to be required to help promoters build their gates," Wester said.

"Castrol's featuring of the Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix in their national advertising helped our fall Can-Am set a new attendance mark," Wester said. "We hope to continue our successful working agreement with Castrol for years to come."

Fabulous Fashions

by Ruby Wilkinson

I AM a great believer in luck. The harder I work the more of it I seem to have . . . Business is usually as bad as we think it and usually as good as we make it.

The 60's have been most important, because women declared their independence and expressed individuality. Words such as "fasion dictates" and "de riguer" have become out-dated. The Rose Brown Shop looks ahead to the 70's as a time for major exciting changes in fashion. Anyone who is an innovator is the object of my admiration. The Rose Brown Shop, Carmel's unique hi-fashion headquarters, is anti-traditional retailing. Come by and get acquainted. We're in convenient Carmel Plaza. Here "you're a stranger only once."

Richard Brace, Founder of the Museum of Tomorrow, will feature a first exhibit of ecology. Environmental project, using Bay Pollution problem to launch first displays.

Artists Robert Horne and Barbara West will display a joint exhibit of students and instructors in life drawing, still life, portraiture and landscape.

Also on schedule will be the dance class of Mary Burr Anthony featuring her ballet students.

Lenore Woolams and students will feature current work of both instructor and students.

No other vertebrate animal breeds as remote in the Antarctic as the penguin.

The Perfect Setting . . . . . for

Weddings . . . an inspiring and impressive ceremony in The Highlands Wedding Chapel.

Receptions . . . a perfectly planned reception in the Point Lobos or Pitschel Room.

Honeymoons . . . enjoy the secluded luxury of a lanai suite or the fireside charm of a garden cottage.

Gourmet meals and the breathtaking beauty of California's most spectacular coastline. The perfect setting for the ever-after memories of that most important occasion.

Pine Cone office invaded by Girl Scout troop

Earlier this month, the peace and orderly routine of the Carmel Pine Cone was disturbed somewhat when a group of girl scouts from troop 2069 toured the offices to find out what makes a newspaper run.

The girls, under the leadership of Barbara Miller and Cathy Nolan, visited several local printing establishments to study the techniques and equipment used in printing. Their object was to collect material enough to earn merit badges in printing.

Members of the newspaper staff were on hand to show the visitors around and answer questions. They all agreed that the girls showed initiative and interest and that the tour was a pleasurable experience for scouts and staff alike.

GRAPHIC DISPLAY — Printer Lloyd Squire shows Soucts the drying negative of the page he holds in his hand. Lloyd photographs the pasted up pages and a plate is made from the negative which is then used on the press to print the newspaper.

OFF THE PRESS — Ann Winter pauses during her tour of the Pine Cone's plant to read a copy of the finished product. Ann and the members of her scout troop are studying various printing methods in order to earn merit badges.

MODERN TYPESETTER — Ann McKenna, supervisor of the typesetting department of the Carmel Pine Cone, explains the new electronic typesetting equipment to a troop of Carmel girl scouts who visited the paper to learn something about the details of publishing a newspaper.

PASTE UP — Joyce Guthrie, head of production, explains the technique of page composition to the girl scouts of troop 2068. She is trimming set copy for placement on the finished page. The term "paste up" is a holdover from early days of publishing when paste was used. Nowadays, a cleaner, hot wax process fastens the copy to clear, transparent sheets for photographing.

Former Carmel resident is named to O.B.E in England

Elliot (Metz) Durham, former Carmel resident who has been living in Nottingham for the last 30 years, recently was named a Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

The O.B.E. is the highest award a Canadian can receive from the Queen for civil service, and Durham, a native of Salt Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada, will attend investiture ceremonies in Buckingham Palace in March.

Long-time Carmel residents will remember Metz Durham as the proprietor of Durham's Hardware Store on Ocean Ave. He was also the owner of "Bob of Carmel," an extremely intelligent dog who used to buy candy and deliver it to his master.

During the 1920's while he was a Carmel resident, Metz Durham wrote and produced "The Carmel Follies" and was a director and actor at the Forest Theater.

Correction

Two weeks ago we had a story about painting classes offered by the Carmel Adult School.

In the story we said that Girard Aken's class would meet every afternoon from 1 to 5. Somewho the word "Wednesday" was omitted from the copy.

Should read that the class meets "every Wednesday afternoon from 1-5."

The story said Aken would also teach seascape painting. While Aken specializes in seascapes in his Carmel gallery, seascape painting will not be taught in this landscaping class.

Del Monte Properties will finance film on Bay pollution

Replying to a request for funds to finance a 16mm motion picture on the evils of Bay pollution, Del Monte Properties Company on Saturday presented a check for $500 to the student committee sponsoring the film.

The cinema project, termed "Save Our Seas," (S.O.S.), is being organized by students and faculty of Seaside, Monterey and Pacific Grove High Schools, Robert Louis Stevenson School and Monterey Peninsula College.

Del Monte Properties' contribution, the first received by the sponsors is equal to 10% of the film's estimated production costs. To be produced in color, the 15 minute feature will be written and scored by students and their instructors. Professional cinematagrapher Steve Rosen will be in charge of photography.

Thanking the company for its generousity, committee member, Mrs. Wendy Bender, a teacher in the English department of Pacific Grove High School, said that the group hopes to secure noted NBC news commentator Sander Vanocur to narrate the film.

Teachers meet at Hyatt House

More than 300 Central Coast teachers are due at Monterey Hyatt House Sat., Feb. 7, for a unique all-day conference on teaching, built around the theme, "Can Local Teachers Be Change Agents in Curriculum?"

Carmel teachers among discussion leaders are Jo Brazell and Sallie Pastula.

Sponsored by the Central Coast Section of the California Teachers Association, the conference is unique in being by, for and with local teachers, consultants and administrators.

"It is meant to be truly a diaglogue of peers on issued of education adn classroom practices instead of having outside consultants giving hit-run advice," said Monterey teacher Mrs. Lucille Scholefield, chairman of the Curriculum and Instruction Committe of CCS-CTA.

Dr. Richard Batchelder, executive secretary of Southern Section, CTA, will make the keynote speech, "The Teacher as Originator of Change."

Padre Hoopsters beat Hollister

by Hal Gann

Playing their best basketball of the 69-70 season, Carmel's Varsity upset Hollister, 64-58, in the local gymnasium Friday evening.

During the early stages, it was Cunningham 9, Hollister 0, as the 5-7 junior gard tallied the first nine points of the game. Kevin hit for 15 in the first half to give Carmel an 11-point lead, then concentrated on defense the rest of the way, still finishing high with 19.

(Next Padre Sportcast is the Carmel at Pacific Grove game tonight, Friday, live and direct over KRSA-FM, 100.7 at 8:05. This action is preceded by Frosh and Junior Varsity contests starting at five.)

In the first quarter, as the Padres overloaded the Haybaler zone, Cunningham was the trigger man, hitting with uncanny accuracy from the outside . . . six field goals of seven attempts and one for one charity toss for a whopping 13 points, the local team enjoying a big 20-7 lead. They were ahead by as much as 14 quite often in the game.

Junior guard Jimmy Conlan began to find the range on his long shots and was the scoring end of two well-executed Carmel fast breaks, finishing with 13. Senior Jeff Canepa (6-3), hitting for 12, and Senior Pete Shaw (6-4), tallying seven, successfully sprang for important rebounds.

The Padres never were behind, leading by 13 at the end of the first stanza, and by 11 at the half and at the end of the third period, but Hollister's senior guard, Phil Yuste (who totaled 17) pulled his team to within two points of the lead wigh less than two minutes to go. The heads up defensive play and rebounding of Canepa, Shaw, Cunningham and Mark Spindler staved off the enemy drive.

Carmel now is 2-4 in MTAL play, with Palma well on its way to the championship with a 6-0 Mark. Outside the Chieftains, the other teams are just about even, one having the capability of beating the other any given night.

The Carmel Freshmen eked out a 56-54 victory, but the local Junior Varisty, due to a foul in the closing seconds, could not preserve a one-point lead with 30 seconds to go, losing, 60-59.

E. McMenamin to be honored at Towne House

On Feb. 14, at the Towne House in Salinas, the people of Monterey County are going to ask Emmet McMenamin to be their Valentine.

He is being honored at a banquet in recognition of his long and excellent service to Monterey County.

Judge William Stewart will be Master of Ceremonies.

In 1913 McMenamin came to Monterey as a skilled tool maker, and later went into the tire and battery business.

He then was elected mayor of Monterey for two terms and was elected County Clerk in 1942.

McMenamin could write a colorful history of Monterey County because of his knowledge of the growth and development of the area.

In 1966 McMenamin was named "Citizen of the Year" at the annual installation of officers of the Monterey County Chamber of Commerce.

All friends of McMenamin are invited to participate in honoring him and can make reservations for the banquet by calling Salinas — 422-9527 or Monterey — 375-0202 from 2-5 p.m.

The deadline for reservations is Wednesday, Feb. 11.

Report From RLS

by Tim Donahoe

With the pressures of final examinations behind them and the expectation of ideal skiing conditions ahead, 158 students and 14 faculty members of the Robert Louis Stevenson School will depart for Squaw Valley on Sunday morning.

In so doing, the group will be upholding a tradition started 18 years ago by President Robert U. Ricklefs of enjoying the facilities of the snow-country during the semester break.

The annual "Ski Week," for the last three years held in the Squaw Valley region, affords all the opportunity to take advantage of mid-week lift rates and the special lessons offered by instructors at Squaw. In addition, the time is put to good use by Edward Brown — coach of the Pirate Ski Team.

Returning lettermen Chris Connally, Pierre d'Avenas, and Jim Schaeffler will be joined by such up-and-coming young skiers as Darcey Evens, Leighton Hills, Joe Meek, and Trygve Duryea in training for the first meet of the season against the Tahoe-Sierra School.

Brown and his charges will be looking for a third consecutive victory in this competition.

If past years serve as any indication, no only will the ski team and the weatherman perform admirably, but the number of broken bones suffered should be minimal.

Only 20 years old, it has one bedroom, tiled bath, kitchen and sunny living room. Fairly and firmly priced at $19,950. It's vacant and we'll glady show it any time.

A CLOSE-IN OVERSIZED LOT was chosen by a native Carmelite for his home 20 years ago when there were many choices. He also chose adobe walls, open-beam living room and hardwood floors. Then he decided on 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and a convenient kitchen. He added a room off the garage for studio or hobby space, planted the yard with native plants and used a redwood fence to set it all off. He's moving now and it can be yours for $42,500.
